THE MONEY QUESTION

Suppose That Our Gold Should All Go Abroad.

WHAT WOULD BE THE CONSEQUENCE P

Senator Jones Shows That Such a Result Need Not Be Feared-Baneful E fect on the Working Classes.

It is admitted that we have $600,000,000 of gold in this country. How long would it take for that gold to go out and $600,000,000 of silver to take its place, and what would be the effect abroad and at home while that operation was taking place? Suppose that according as portions of the $600,000,000 went the monetary supply s country were maintained at a level by the issuance of a number silver dollars equal to the number of gold dollars that were sent abroad. Sup-pose the gold to go out gradually and sil-ver gradually to come in to take its place.

Suppose that ultimately—say in a year-$100,000,000 of gold should go and $100,000,000 of silver were coined and issued to take its place. Could any change take place on that account in the prices of commodities? If so, how? Can any citizen answer? And question cannot be answered let me further inquire, if prices do not rise how can our importations increase suf-ficiently to take out any more gold? But suppose that eventually all our gold left country and went to Europe, would the gold standard of Europe be the same that it now is? There is, according to the report of the treasury department, $3,000, 000,000 of gold in Europe. An influx of $600,000,000 would be an addition of 20 per cent to that stock of money. Is it to be contended that that amount added to the volume of money in European countries would not raise the prices of commodities there? Would the gold standard of Europe be then the same gold standard that it is now? Manifestly not.

The gold standard simply means the range of prices consistent with the available quantity of gold money. When our gold had all gone and entered into the circulation of European countries, its place being supplied here by silver, would not the gold standard of those countries be altogether a different standard from that of today? Would it not be a much better standard, a more beneficent standard? Would not the range of prices in Europe be materially increased by the influx of so large an amount of gold? Would not a halt be called to the unjust increase in the burden of debt, and would not our products exported to Europe command much better prices than they now do? To what better place could our gold go than to the markets in which we sell our wheat, cotton, petroleum, tobaccc and meat products?

Meanwhile as each dellar of silver took the place in our circulation of each dollar of gold as the gold went out our prices could not alter. It will surely not be contended that a dollar of silver could have any more effect than a dollar in gold.

Suppose, as I have said, that $100,000,000 Suppose, as I have said, that $100,000,000 of gold should go out every year. Of this amount we should have $35,000,000 from our own mines, which would leave $65,000,000 of our accumulated stock to be sent out. Hence it would require ten years to send out all our gold, even at the rate of $100,-000,000 a year, and even if that amount. 000,000 a year, and even if that amount when sent to Europe, had no effect what ever on prices of commodities in the coun-tries to which it went.

But no one doubts that it would raise prices there, so that long before one-half or even one-third of our gold could go to Europe the range of prices would be such as to establish an equilibrium between the two countries. This would altogether stop the outgo of gold. No man with any careflection can for a moment doubt that this is precisely what would occur. Hence the demand for our gold would stop very far short of exhausting the quantity in the country.

There is no country in which the upper classes are more luxurious than in Russia.

They are the most lavishly extravagant people in the world in the purchase of all sorts of foreign ldxuries. Yet they have had practically no money but paper money for 100 years. They simply purchase the necessary gold by means of the commodities they have to selt. Does anybody sup-pose that we cannot get in like manner the few things that we need abroad—for we need, in proportion to our population and wealth, less things abroad than any other people in the world?

All the articles of prime necessity, the articles required for the daily living of the masses of our people, are in surplus in our country, so that we do not need to buy them abroad. The same is true of the larger proportion of our luxuries High Priced Money and the Working Classes.

Some advocates of the gold standard inquire, with a sneer, how it is that free coinage of silver is going to put money into the pockets of the workingmen. They that men must give labor for money that we agree. In advocating the free To that we coinage of silver men do not attemp to put money directly into anybody's pock What we are attempting to do is to ure the adoption of a national policy that will enable business to be conducted on steady prices for the products of labo If employers cannot conduct business with-out incurring loss, idle men cannot find employment. They will earn their money if given the opportunity. But if there not enough money in the community not enough money in the community to prevent falling prices it is impossible that men can be kept in uninterrupted employ-

We are simply attempting to secure the adoption of laws that will permit the issue of metallic money, as has been the custom of all time. If we are to have metallic morey, how is it to be got into circulation? How do people get gold money? Do they not have to work for it? Men have or bank notes, which have valuable quality which so many call "intrinsic value.

With a correct monetary policy, those the new earn nothing will be set to work, and will get their share of the money in community without depriving others of an equal opportunity to get such share as those others may be entitled to. Because a law against stealing does not ut money directly into any man's hands Because the preaching of the gospel does not put money into the pockets of the multitude, must therefore the preaching of the gospel does not put money into the pockets of the multitude, must therefore the preaching of the gospel he dispensed with? Because the observance of morality or justice puts no money directly into the pockets of people, must we, therefore, cease the involvention. must we, therefore, cease the inculcation of those qualities? Why trouble ourselves commend to our youth the advantages education, intelligence, uprightness honesty, equity and fair dealing, because after all, as the gold advocates inform ey can be made only by working for it? t not people attempt by proper law to establish correct conditions?

gold monometallists are right, tar the decalogue is a superfluity, and the ser mon on the mount mere exuberance mere exuberance of No one can see very clearly how either of those puts money directly into the pockets of the people? Let the bank ers have charge of the issuing of the money of the country, and they will be happy. The people of this country have deter-mined, however, that the issue of money, which is a function of sovereignty, shall exercised by themselves, through their overnment, and it is useless for the banks attempt to override the will of the peo-

Mock Fears That the Workingme May Be Paid in Depreciated Silver.
Others of the gold standard advocates, among whom are found the New York bankers and the president of the United States, entertain great fear that if the silver purchase law is not repealed the workingmen will be paid in depreciated money-money of low purchasing power-while the employers will keep the gold money for themselves-because it will, as they suppose, have higher purchasing power.

taken the trouble to indicate how this result was to be brought out, so that we might have before us the modus operandi. If silver dollars were to become depreciated, in relation to what would they depreciated? Would they become depre-ciated in relation to the products of labor? Does anybody suppose that if the products of labor bring a higher price the wages of the laborer will not rise with the price of the products? Nothing can be clearer than that the wages of labor rust in the long. that the wages of labor must in the long run fall with the prices of the products of labor, and that they must rise with rising prices for those products, and with the modern organization of labor the rise of wages must promptly follow a rise of the latter case not only does labor In the latter case not only does labor rise, but the universal testimony is that it maintains the rise for a considerable time after the general range of prices of commodities has fallen, and this by reason of the natural indisposition of the working classes to have their wages reduced, and their stubborn opposition to any proposition looking to that end.

With the article which is they product of labor persistently falling in price, how can the employer keep on paying the workingman a dollar that is constantly growing more valuable?

can the employer keep on paying the workingman a dollar that is constantly growing more valuable?

How could anybody afford to continue ranufacturing if he must pay wages at the former rate while the product of the labor is falling in price?

There was a time, as we all know, when the metal that was becoming the cheaper and more plentiful was not silver, but gold. What was the belief at that time regarding the probable effect of such cheapening process on the wages of the workingman? And what class of the community was then deemed entitled to commiscration owing to the growth of the community was then deemed entitled to commiscration owing to the growth of the workingman? The the first of the community was then deemed entitled to commiscration owing to the growth of the workingman of the world by the California and Australia discoveries. Professor Cairnes ("Essays in Political Economy") has demonstrated that the addition of 40 per cent to the n-cney volume of Great Britsin between 1851 and 1859 was prevented from affecting the prices of commodities except in the most gradual and infinitesimal degree, not merely by the stimulus to business, but by reason of the increase in real incomes resulting to the industrial classes as a consequence of the increased production of gold. He demonstrated that the tendency of all increases in the volume of money was to effect a larger proportionate distribution of money among the working classes.

The true test of the prosperity of the people is their ability to consume. No people can have the nighest capacity for consumption while large numbers among them are unemployed. With steady prices, or prices having a slight tendency to rise, employers will be seeking workmen with all the zeal that workmen are now seeking employers.

IMPROVING THE SYSTEM.

The Agricultural Department To Put Its New Scheme Into Operation.

Washington, May 29.-The agricultural department has made an important improvement in its system of securing crop returns, and, while it is not expected that the new system will be in full operation before twelve months, still benefits are expected to be found much earlier, when the new scheme will be put into operation as fast as agents can be secured to do the work.

Lecently a conference was held between Secretary Morton and Statistician Robinson, of the department of agriculture, and a committee appointed by the various com-mercial bodies of the country, with the view of reforming the crop-reporting system of the department and reorganizing the force of crop reporters. The new system determined upon is the outcome of that conference

The new plan is to have a correspondent in each township of every state instead of as under the present plan of four reporters in each county. This will be an enlargement of the present working force, and it is expected by Mr. Robinson that the de-partment will have 50,000 township correspondents in the field. The old plan was have three of the ret county turn in their matter to the fourth who is designated as "chief corn and he averages their reports, and com municates to the department.

the rew scheme each of the township correspondents will communicate the department of agriculture direct. Because of the additional reports these reports will entail on the increase in the clerical force of the depart-ment will have to be made.

The great difficulty the department is experiencing is in getting township reporters, as they are not to receive pay. A circular has been prepared and sent to county clerks throughout the country ask-ing them to nominate two men in each ownship, one of whom would be selected to serve as reporter. It will take some time, the officials say, to make these approgressed favorably.

THE WIND'S HOT BREATH

Is Spreading Destruction and Blasting the Crops of lows.

DesMoines, Ia., May 29.-Hot winds, blowing forty miles an hour from the south and southwest for forty-eight hours, done material damage to growing crops all over the state, J. R. Sage, director of the weather and crop service, says that the winds, which have a temperature of degrees, have greatly injured the hay crop, damaged late oats and probably corn hay Good showers will repair the damage. Two deaths from sunstroke have been reported. The drought of last year, which ruined the crops, started a year ago today.

The Seventeen Year Locusis. Des Moines, Ia., May 29.-Farmers in the central part of the state are much alarm ed over the discovery of small swarms of seventeen-year locusts. They are similar to the locusts which devastated the western country seventeen years ago and hav the characteristic mark-a letter ch wing. Scientific men say that this the year when the locusts should appear Scientific men say that this in clouds again if the theory advanced in regard to their return is correct. So far omy small damage is reported.

WRECK OF THE COLIMA.

It Is Feared That Over 150 Persons Have Perished.

I wish some of them or their friends had San Francisco, May 29.-The Pacific Mail steamship Colima was wrecked between Manazilla and Acapulco on May 27th, and the present indications are that over 156 persons perished. Only nineteen known to have been saved. The C was an iron vessel of 2,906 tons burden the was built by Roach, of Philadelphi and sailed from this city on the 18th in-stant in command of Captain J. F. Taylor. The other officers were: D. E. Graffiths, first officer; George Langham, second officer; O. Hansen, third officer; L. W. T. Kirby, surgeon; T. E. Berry, freight clerk; A. K. Richardson, storekeeper; William & Smith, chief engineer; H. Finley, and Tomnereg, sécond engineers. There were forty cabin passengers, forty Chinese and seventeen officers and crew. The news of the disaster reached this city through a dispatch received by the agents of the Pacific Mail Company. One of the steam er's small boats, containing fourteen passengers and five of the crew, reached the Mexican coast and it was this party that telegraphed the news of the wreck. None of the remaining 150 passengers and crew has been heard of. Names of the passengers rescued have not yet been learned. gers rescued have not yet been learned. The beat containing the rescued men was picked up at sea by the steamer San Juan, northbound to this city from Central Amer-ican ports. She immediately put into Man-zanillo with the saved and according to dispatches since received at once went to sea again in search of other boats. Immediately upon receipt here of the news the Pacific Mail Company sent a dispatch to their agents at Acapulco to send the steamer Barracott, which had just arrived there from Pomona, to make thorough search for the five other boats, which it is thought are either affoat with passengers and crew or on the coast near

It was impossible to see whether the other boats pulled away before being sucked under by the sinking vessel or not. All of the rescued passengers lost their

Shortly after the dispatch from Richardson was received a telegram was received from the company's agent at Manzanillo to the effect that the ship had gone down and that fourteen passengers and five the crew had reached shore in a smell boat. The Pacific Mail Steamship Company has been advised that the following passengers and crew were landed at Manzanillo by the first boat:

Cabin-Cushing, Thornton, Domingo, Albano, A. J. Sutherland, Lararula and Rinz. Steerage—J. W. Crew, D. Ross, H. W. Boyd, Anto Ramiz, Rowan, Joseph Sans, T. J. O'Neil. Carpenter, Richardson, Crew-Anson, Raymond, Morrill.

In the passenger list all of those saved appear as belonging at San Jose de Guate-mala. Richardson is the ship's store-keeper and the first intelligence of the wreck came from him.

The Colima was bound for Panama, and was due at Manzanillo on Sunday, the 26th instant. The dispatches show that the vessel foundered on Monday, the 27th, off Manzanillo, which would indicate that prob-ably some accident to the machinery occurred which retarded the progress of th vessel and prevented her from reaching Manzanillo before she foundered. The vessel had six lifeboats, which hung from davits, ready to be launched at a moment's notice, and it is thought that all of these could have been launched, no matter how rapidly the vessel sank.

The telegraph received by the company's agent only accounts for one boat, the fact that more had not arrived at Manzanillo at the time the disposent is the only indication that of life may have been very great. Alexander Center, general agent of the com pany, says he is confident that other boats will come, but if there is any loss of life, it will be impossible to give a full list of the dead, as on its way down the vessel doubtless picked up other passengers in addition to those she took from this city.

The remaining carriages in their order were filled by President and Mrs. Cleveland, Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Uhl, Secretary and Mrs. Lamont, Attorney General and Mrs. Olney, Postmaster General and Mrs. Wilson, Secretaries Herbert and Smith, whose families are absent from the city; Secretary and Miss Morton and other personal friends in diplomatic and private life of Mr. and Mrs. Gresham.

When the head of the procession reached the main entrance to the station the caval-ry drew up in line and permitted the carriages to pass between them. It was almost noon when the president and caoinet reached the depot and embarked. Mr. Cleveland plainly showed the effect of his recent illness. His face was flushed and heated and as he stood with bared head the perspiration streamed down his face. Although nothing had been said about it, it was noticed that Dr. O'Re'lly attended the president and went to Chicago with the party. It was given out that this was done on Mrs. Gresham's account, but it is believed that the condition of the presiden himself had as much to do with the pres ence of the doctor as anything else. ## COTTON MANUFACTURING.

The Manufacturers' Record Presents

Statistics on the Industry. Baltimore, May 29.-The special cotton mill edition of The Manufacturers' Record, of this week, shows that the amount of capital invested in southerh cofton mills increased from $21,900,000 in 1880 and $61,100,000 in 1890 to $107,000,000 at present, while about $12,000,000 additional will be spent in the construction of the miles new building and projected. In 1880 the south had 667,000 spindles, in 1891 1,700,000 spindles and at the present time 3,000,000 spindles, while the mills under construction will add 500,000 spindles more, or a total of 3,500,000 spindles, thus doubling the entire cotton mill business of the south since 1890. A number of leading New England experts give their views upon the cotton manufacturing advantages of the president of the Corliss Engine Company, of Providence, R. I., and for twelve years manager of the largest mill corporation in New England, running over 420,000 spindles says of the south's cotton mill facilities:

I have great in the possibilities of the south. able field for investment in the manufacture of cotton. C. R. Makepeace, a leading New England cotton mill engineer, says: "The next ten years will show a great increase in the number of spindles in this country. I think a large percentage of it, even including the finer numbers, will be in the southern states, and it is an indis-putable fact that the average number of varns spun in the south has been raised from coarser to finer counts more rapidly than has been the tendency in this direct tion in New England. The phenomenal success of some mills crected in the south during the last four years, which are mak-ing a finer grade of goods than has been the custom in that section, will cause others to change to finer goods. It is nothing more than natural than a large per centage of the increase in spindles in this country' during the year to come should turing, situated near the point where the cotton is grown, than that the iron in-dustry of this country should center some near where all the raw materials for making iron are found."

To Refuse To Marry Divorcees. London, May 29.—In the house of lords yesterday Lord Halifax's bill to empower church officials to refuse to marry persons who have been divorced passed its second reading. SOME MEMPHIS PERSONALITIES.

That Memphis convention will not down. It keeps bobbing up with as great fre quency as any one of the Shakespearean ghosts and even more virulence. The news that Mr. Cleveland is very "sore" the results, as was shown so clearly by 21. World's Washington dispatch reproduced in yesterday's Constitution, is most interesting. Coming from such a source it must be authentic; for The World represents the administration ideas of finance most thoroughly, and is very close to the

And yet with all this-with some of the utterances of the convention being assailed most bitterly by the very men who brought it about, and with even Mr. Cleveland disappointed in its outcome-the southern cuckoo press keeps on trying to fool the people into the belief that Josiah's convention was not a farce.

The Hon. Josiah Patterson would do well to keep away from the white house for a time, at least. He may be needed later on and then he will be called; but just now he and his convention form a topic of conversation at which the nation's chief executive draws a great, big, broad chalk

There will be another Memphis convention and it is easy to predict-with a cer-tainty of the prediction coming true-that at the June convention there will be a crowd and a degree of enthusiasm that will completely eclipse the May record.

The Bimetallic League, under whose auspices the June convention will be held. is a body of active, enthusiastic and ag-gressive citizens who are most deeply in earnest in their determination to do their part toward carrying Tennessee-yes, Mis-sissippi and Arkansas as well-for bimetallism. West Tennessee is unquestionably strongly for silver. Many of the gold men of Memphis acknowledge that even in that city the silverites have a decided majority, while in the rural districts the sentiment is overwhelming.

At the head of Tennessee bimetallists stands the venerable Senator Isham G. Harris; and he has able lieutenants in all parts of the state. One of these whose strength and power is everywhere acknowledged, is Editor Carmack, of The Commercial-Appeal. Colonel Carmack is a ofiniant writer, a man of strong executive ability, a forceful and eloquent speak-er. On the silver question he talks with the courage of one who has deep lasting convictions, and he has for he has made a thorough study of the great subject. Mr. W. D. Robinson, managing edit or of The Commercial-Appeal, is another very strong bimetallist and is doing ex-cellent work for the cause.

The president of the league is Mr. W. N. Brown, a leading cotton factor. He talks enthusiastically over the outlook for bimetallism. "Here in Memphis we have, I am sure, a majority," said he. "Tennessee is strongly for silver. The same is true of Mississippi. Senator Harris and the other public men who take our side are doing magni work for the cause. The Cleveland ideas of finance have some supporters, of course, but the cause of the people is sure to

Mr. Jere Horn, a leading real estate dealer, is one of the active members of the league, and Mr. L. S. Lake another. Both of these expressed themselves as enthusi-astic over the outlook. They were interest-ed spectators at the convention, but said uldn't be a marker to the one to be held later.

One of the most popular of the younger men of Memphis is he who is known to everybody there as Tom Boggs. In speaki of him everybody uses the double name—not "Tom" or "Boggs," but "Tom Boggs," always. He will be pleasantly remembered in Atlanta, where he spoke in the interests of the sound money convention, and the At-lantians who visited Memphis received at his hands the kindest of treatment. In fact, he was about the only person connected with the movement who did pay any attention to the visitors and I know the Georgians appreciated it.

And right here, in justice to Tom Boggs And right here, in a stroneous impression which I find was created by a reference to him in one of my dispatches. In comto him in one of my dispatches. In com-menting upon the moving powers of the convention, I took up the current talk about Tom Boggs's connection with the move-ment and suggested that I thought he was worth much more than the $1,000 fee popularly supposed, according to that talk, to have received, for if the representative attendance at the convention vany single cause, that cause wa work which he had done on his tour though the south.

I did not mean to insiruate that his motives in working for the sound money cause were mercenary, for I am sure they were not; nor was it intended that the impression should go abroad that his visit was not authorized for he controlled. authorized, for he certainly did represent the men who had the convention in charge was acting under the special direction cretary Hetter, of the cotton exchange. Where he is known no such explanation as this is necessary, but I make it, fearing hat others may have misunderstood.

Tom Boggs is an enthusiastic gold standard man and is an able fellow, who is going to be heard from. Colonel W. W. Gerdar, Savannah, who knew Stephen A. Douglas as a young man, says that Tom Boggs resembles him more than anybody he has ever seen since. In Atlanta his likeness to Henry Grady was noticed. A combination like that cannot be downed.

The postmaster of Memphis is the strongest young man in west Tennessee. one man upon whom all elements are ed, the only man who had the joint sup port of Senator Harris and Congressman Patterson, who are so strongly opposed to each other in most matters. "Bob" Armour is the aforesaid postmaster and if a man in Memphis begrudges him a cent of ernment salary he draws, I coulding

Ind that man.

Major Armour is one of those lovable fellows who will go to any length for a friend and whose friends, therefore, are the right He is foremost in everything about own. It is both rational and reasonable; and it is doing more for the care of lung troubles than any other preparation.

GUNS IN COURT.

Judge Emory Speer Points One at Ex-Marshal Corbett.

THE LATTER AS A LIVING PICTURE

Colonel Preston Also Draws a Bead on Mr. Corbett as He Stands on the Floor of the Courtroom.

Macon, Ga., May 29 .- (Special.)-All evidence in the habeas corpus hearing of the deputy marshals charged with the murder of Lucius Williams was submitted by noon today and argument was then com menced. The following is a synopsis of most important part of today's proceedings:

"Shot to Death." T. Jack Williams, son of Lucius Williams, was the first witness. He saw his father after he was shot and prior to his death. He was conscious and told his son was "shot to death," and there was no need of going for a physician. The father was lying in the front porch when shot. Continuing Williams said: "When I went out of the house I saw Kelly and Kelly said he would like to see my father, but I told him that he had fatally shot him, and he was sorry that he had shot father, but to do it in self-defense, as my had fired at him twice before he Kelly also said to me: 'I command you in the name of the president of the United States to go for a physician right away. At Helena Kelly denied to me that he had said that my father shot at him twice before he fired at father."

In reply to the district attorney the witness said he understood there was an indictment in the United States court against him for adding in the murder of Tom Young, but knew nothing of the indictment until he came to Macon at this time. He was put in jail in February on the charge of assisting in the rescue of Lucius Wil-liams, intimidation, conspiracy, etc. He gave bond and was released from jail. gave bond and was released from jail. He frequently saw his father and two s with guns, but didn't see his with a gun on the morning of the killing. He saw him at a store on that morning, but he had no gun. He thought his father carried a gun to evade arrest. Heard his father and prothers say they had been camping in the swamp, but don't know for what purpose. Colonel Preston again tendered in evidence the newspaper which it was alleged was over the face or Lucius Williams when he was lying on the porch, but the judge would not admit the paper, as no had identified it as the paper which Williams's was said to have been over

Sheriff Alligood, of Telfair, said that he understood Kelly to say that he and Lucius

Williams fired about the same time.

Dr. H. J. Smith, of Telfair, testified that he was called in to see Lucius Williams after he was shot. He described the location of the wounds. A Living Picture.

Judge Speer, addressing Mr. W. P. Cor-bett, said he desired a large man on whom Dr. Smith could point out the location of wounds as made on Williams, and asked Mr. Corbett to submit himself as the subject. Mr. Corbett consented, and made a first-class living picture. At the request of the court, Mr. Corbett removed his coat and Dr. Smith pointed out the location of the wounds. Mr. Corbett then stretched out on the floor, his head resting on the turned down back of a chair, in representation of the position Lucius Wil-liams is said to have laid on the porch. Colonel Preston then took a gun and stood in the direction Kelly is said to have cupied when he fired the first shot Williams, as alleged, and aiming the gun at the reclining figure of Mr. Corbett, asked Dr. Smith if Kelly had thus fired could the wounds on the jaw and the forehead have been inflicted. Dr. Smith replied that he thought the wounds could have thus been made. Judge Speer then took the gun and aiming it at Corbett as Preston did, asked Dr. Smith could the wounds did, asked Dr. Smith could the wounds near the spine have been inflicted, and Dr. Smith said they could not.

Mr. Corbett was then asked to take position with a gun around an imaginary corner, in representation of Williams's position around the real corner of the front porch. Judge Speer then asked Dr. Smith was it possible for Williams to have received the wound in the side, and Dr. Smith said wound in the side, and Dr. Smith said yes. He was further asked if it were possi-ble for Williams to have thus received the wounds near the spine or small of the back, and Dr. Smith said it was not possi-ble, unless Williams had turned around. The living picture exhibition by Mr. Corbett

Colonel Preston then announced that the prosecution would introduce no other witnesses. District Attorney Gary said that his side had no further testimony to offer.

Argument Commenced. Solicifor General Eason, of the O mee circuit, arose and said that, as far s he was concerned, he was willing to the case submitted without argument. The district attorney and Mr. Erwin responded that this was agreeable to them, and they were also willing to let the matter decided without argument.

It looked as if there would be no speeches, but Colonel Preston conferred a few months.

It looked as if there would be no speeches, but Colonel Preston conferred a few moments with Sheriff Alligood, of Telfair county, and stated that, as far as he was concerned, he desired to argue the matter in compliance with the wishes of the sheriff who had arrested the deputies on a state warrant charging murder.

Judge Speer then announced that each side would be allowed two hours for argument.

Marion Erwin and Tom Eason finished their arguments. Colonel Preston made a part of his argument and will conclude to rrow. He will be followed by trict attorney. Newt Wells was put under $200 bond for his appearance to answer the charge of aiding in the rescue of Luclus Williams from the officers last De At the conclusion of the habeas corpus Hitherto Unknown Insect Found Preying on the Plant.

San Antonio, Tex., May 29.—Professor C. H. Townsend, the government entomologist who was recently sent to southwest Texas to investigate the cctton boil weevil, has just finished a trip through the border counties of Texas on the lower Rio Grande. He states that he found very little cotton growing along the Rio Grande, and that the only place where he found the cotton infested with the weevil was in the vicinity of Santa Maria, He also reports the discovery at Santa Maria of reports the discovery at Santa Maria of a rew insect preying on the cotton, which he had never before seen.

"This new cotton insect," said Professor Townsend, "is a scale insect, belonging. therefore, to the family coccidea. It has not yet been specifically determined. In appearance it is cottony white, about a quarter of an inch long and less then quarter of an inch leng and less than half as wide, and looks like an oblong bit of cotton stuck on the plant. It was found very numerously on a single plant of cot-ton two miles west of Santa Maria, occurring on the leaves and stems. It injures the plant by sucking the juice from the tissues, remaining stationary either on eaves or stems. This is the first and only leaves or stems. This is the first and only time that this insect has been found on cotton in the United States. It is entirely new to the planters. It is a soft-bodied insect, which clotaes itself with a cottony secretion, entirely covering it. The scale insects are among the most injurious insects known, and spread very rapidly, so this may prove serious if it reaches a district where much cotton is cultivated. Fortunately there is but little cotton this year on the lower Rio Grande."

They Do Not Intend To Interfere, How er, So Long as the Excursionists Confine the Fighting To Themselv.s.

Americus, Ga., May 29 .- (Special,)-Everything points to trouble at Andersonville tomorrow when the clans gather from all parts of southwest Georgia to celebrate Decoration Day at the national cemetery. It is estimated that 10,000 to 15,000 negroes will go. With many of them the occasion has no significance beyond an orgy of drink-

Last year the marshal of Andersonville was shot by a riotous mob, and it is reported that a large number of desperate negroes from the turpentine farms east of Americus, all armed with Winchesters, will be present and will see that no interference is made by any civil or military officials, no matter what disturbance may arise. Mayor Joiner, of Andersonville, was in Americus today and he is very appre-hensive of trouble. The citizens of Ander-sonville are all weil armed, but will not attempt to quell any riot or interfere in any rows between the negroes, merely confining their attention to the protection of their homes and families.

No amount of shooting, so long as the ne groes do not trouble citizens, will cause the latter to take any hand. They will act only in self-defense. Dr. Joiner has been advised that a party of negroes have arranged to cut the telegraph wires to Americus the moment any trouble begins. This will be to prevent the Americus Light Infantry from reaching Andersonville. This com-pany will not turn out unless a telegram from the mayor of Andersonville to Sheriff Forest is received calling for help. Then the fire bell will summon the soldiers to their armory, where everything will be made ready under the terms of the govern-or's orders. No special train has been pro-vided for the use of the company, but as there will be trains for the excursionists running almost every hour of the day be-tween the two places it is thought there will be no material delay in reaching An-dersonville should a call for the military

SHE WHIPPED THREE MEN.

Two of Them Mixed in a Figlit Between Husband and Wife.

Rome, Ga., May 29 .- (Special.)-The pitiful story of Mrs. Martha Chapman Garris, adjudged a lunatic by a jury and now confined in jail to await the result of an application for her admission into the asylum, sounds like a romance.

Two years ago she was a gentle, happyhearted girl, living in Augusta. Her only brother had gone to Philadelphia to live, her mother had just died and her father was a poor man, a common laborer.

At that stage of the game Zachariah Garris appeared upon the scene. She was arrested, tried for lunacy and placed in custody of the sheriff. She is a handsome and comely girl, deeply plous and of a most agreeable disposition, but her life sorrow has driven her insane. A Romantie Tale.

Tom Spinner, who passed through Rome in search of his missing wife, tells a romantic tale of woe. He says that he has been in pursuit of her ever since Christ-mas, when she cloped with another weaver from the Danville, Va., cotton mills, the man deserting a wife and two children. Spinner says his wife is the most beauti-ful woman in the world and he is bound to have her if she can be found. They had lived together seven years when she de-serted him, but had no children. He had but little money when he started and that was soon exhausted but patiently he persisted in the pursuit, and in Atlanta he was only a few hours behind the guilty

Wants His Child.

Judge Turnbull has decided that George W. Davis and his wife are the legal custodians of the child of W. T. Townsend, who has been suing for its recovery.

The child is now a bright girl of four years, having been given by Townsend to the Davises when sne was an infant, at the death of her mother.

Townsend married again, and a few months after his second venture he began to try to recover possession of the little girl, who is devoted to the Davises, as they are to her. They are amply able to take care of her and Townsend is very poor, but he is going to carry the case to the supreme court, although the made a bona fide contract relinquishing all claims to her when he gave her to the Davises.

Griffin, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—The public schools commencement, which is now in progress, will be closed tomorrow night by an entertainment at the Olympic theater, given under the direction of Miss Sherwood, who has charge of the musical department, and Miss Mitchell, instructress in elocution. The programme is the best that has yet been presented here and the ladies are highly elated over their prospects for success. Miss Mitchell, who has lately returned from the north, where she perfected herself in elocution, will present some new and interesting features in her department.

During the evening diplomas will be de-livered to the graduating class. In a short while after the schools close Professor Bothwell Graham, who has been superintendent for several years, will leave for his future home in Athens, where he goes to accept a professorship in the State Normal school. His administration as su-perintendent has been singularly successful and under his care the public school system of Griffin has grown very strong.

THE SEABOARD SUIT

There Will Be Dozens of Big Railroad Guns in Macon.

HEARING OF THE INJUNCTION CASE

Judge Emory Speer Will Hear What the Associated Roads Have To Say in the Matter-Other Railroad News.

Today is set apart for the trial of the elebrated injunction case brought by the Seaboard Air-Line against all the lines that compose the Southern Railway and Steamship Association in the United States court, over which Judge Speer presides.

The case is booked for a hearing today in Macon and all of the big railroad guns will be there.

The history of the suit is interesting and is the sensation of the season in railroad circles. The Seaboard was boycotted several months ago by the Southern Railway and Steamship Association, it being claimed by the association that although the Seaboard was not a member of the organization it was under agreement to abide its rulings in the matter of rates and other details of traffic agree-

It was charged that the Seaboard repeatedly violated the rules and terms of the organization and that the roads composing the Southern Railway and Steamship Association were being seriously injured by the alleged fraudulent manipulations of the Seaboard. For these reasons and under such charges the Seaboard was boycotted by the associated roads.

The boycott had not fairly taken effect before the Seaboard was up and doing Metsrs. King & Spalding, representing that road, went before Judge Lumpkin, of the Fulten county superior court, and filed a bill for an injunction against the Western and Atlantic and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis roads, there being a special contract between these three companies by which the latter agreed to give the Seaboard always as advantageous rates as to any other line. The ruling of Judge Lumpkin in the case, however, was not to the Seaboard's interest, he holding that the two roads leading out to the west would have a right to make rates on all business originating beyond the city of Chattanooga. The attorneys for the Seaboard then filed a bill of exceptions to this decision, which is now pending before the court, the hearing having just been ended yesterday, when Mr. J. J. Spaiding, for the Seaboard, made the last speech. The supreme court will render a decision in the near future, it being a

But in the meantime the attorneys for the Seaboard have made a greater strike than this. They have gone to the federal courts and waged war upon the Central railread, which is in the hands of a re-ceiver and under the control of the fed-eral court in which the suit is to be tried. The nature of the suit has already been told in repeated accounts published in The Constitution. The defendants in the case are all the lines in the Southern Railway and Steamship Association, though the Cen tral of Georgia has been singled out as a paticular target for the arguments that will be brought out by the Seaboard's shrewd attorneys. The case is the sensation of the day. There will be gathered in Macon more prominent railroad officials and railroad lawyers than were ever gathered in a courthouse on any one case, perhaps, since the sait affects the interests of all the leading lines of the south, Judge Baxter, of Nashville, the celebrated attorney in such cases as this, which questions the right of reads to select partners in making frough rates, and who has made count less arguments before the interstate com merce commission on the issues involved in the noted long and short haul litigation, has been engaged by the Southern Rail-ay and Steamship Association. All of the railroads will have their attorneys present when the case comes up before Judge Speer, and King & Spalding, for the Seaboard, will have with them Chief Counsel Watts, of that system. It will, indeed, be a battle royal between the roads, and the validity of the agree ment that holds the members of the South-ern Railway and Steamship Association tothe issue before the court This makes it one of the most important ern association, all of which are in some way connected with the many roads that into Atlanta. These roads are represented by as many men, who form the special committee which will report to the general committee on June 11th.

Mr. Harmon Says That the Exposition Rates Will Be a Surprise.

The gentlemen were today unable to nake any estimate of what the rates would be from the northern cities, but they said hey would be the most satisfactory rates that have ever been issued. "We are taking into consideration the hard times," said Mr. Harmon, of the Western and Atlantic, "and the rates to Atlanta will be much cheaper than they were to Chicago, in proportion I mean. We are making every effort to make the rates very low and I think the result will prove quite phenomenal when we are through

RECENT DISCOVERIES.

It was only the other day, in a rock-hewn tomb down in southern Mexico, that there sword, bearing on its blade and handle-in rich inlaying of silver-characters of record and representations of life distinctively Assyrian and Grecian. The roughly hammered iron blade showed the crudity of the early days of the iron age, but the ex-quisite inlaying of silver on the bronze bore testimony to the cunning of the silversmiths who wrought the weapon. To all appearances, and according to the inscriptions, it was a royal arm, for on its ample hilt it bore in horizontal lines the crowned head of its wearer, while below, in uneiform characters on the blade, were apparently the title and name of the sovereign. The sword and scabbard weighed twelve pounds, of which the sword alone represented two-thirds of the total. How the tomb in Mexico is more than any one has been able to conjecture. All over central and southern Mexico there are relics of a departed race whose annals antedate even those of the Aztecs. Antiquarians have endeavored to read their history in the stones of Tula, which was the old Toltec capital, now a place of ruins Tula is now overgrown and half hidden n sight. San Juan Teotihuacan is also famous for its two great earthen pyramids. which stand out on the plain a half-mile apart. One of them was dedicated to the sun, the other to the moon. The earth for miles around is filled with small images—ancient people spent most of their time in making them. A marvelous story is that which come from Arizona, where a few months ago some prospectors in the Bradshaw mour one of the most inaccessible canons of range-the largest village of the kind ever yet discovered. Several of the houses were explored and large quantities of pot-tery and some instruments, evidently used cultivating the soil, were found. In the skeleton of a man, not over four eight inches in height, was discovered. The canon at this place is half a mile wide and shows evidence of having been cultivated. If this theory proves true it will throw more light on the of this little known people. So far as known no other evidence has ever been dis-covered of cliff dwellers having cultivated been traveling in Central America, has recently obtained and forwarded to the im-perial museum in Vienna twelve large stone slabs bearing footprints in the solid rock. The slabs were taken from the quarry over Lake Managua, in the territory of Nica-ragua. These footprints had been overlaid by eleven different layers of stone, extending to a depth of four meters, and indicating an antiquity for our race quite transcending all conjectures hitherto haz-arded. They are about three-quarters of a meter square and are sunk into the stone to a depth of from eight to ten centi-meters. The focuprints are said to be very conspicuous and seem to be those of three distinct persons, one of whom was a child. To what race or to what age they belonged no one yet has ventured to guess.

Curious and puzzling as anything brought to light in recent years was some ancient handiwork found not long ago in making excavations for a canal connecting Lakes Eustis and Dora, in southern Florida. The first excavations revealed the existence of a clearly defined wall lying in a line tending toward the southwest from where it was first struck. The wall was com-posed of a dark brown sandstone, very much crumbled in places, but more distinct, more clearly defined and the stone more wall was evidently the eastern side of an ancient home or fortification. This sand niound was dug into only a few inches, but enough was discovered to warrant the belief that here on the northwestern shore of Lake Dora is submerged a city or town or fortification older by centuries than any thing yet discovered in this portion of Florida. Small curiously shaped blocks of sandstone, some of them showing traces of fire, pieces of pottery and utensils made of mottled flint were thrown out by the men while werking waist deep in water. One spear head of mottled flint, five and a half inches long by one and a quarter inches wide, nicely finished, was taken from the top of the sand mound and about four feet below the water level of the lake.

But in 10 part of this country, perhaps, have so many valuable "finds" been made as in the territory of New Mexico. All this region seems to heve been thickly peopled ages ago by a highly civilized race. On the highest point of the great Potrero de las Vacas of New Mexico are the most re-markable prehistoric relics that have been discovered, being ro less than the gods sculptured in stone that were worshiped by the ancients. These are the statues of mountain lions carved from a volcanic rock. The images are inclosed in a rude and almost circular stone wall, in a space fifty feet in circumference, three feet in height, with an entrance projecting eighteen feet toward the southeast three feet wide. The liens face directly toward the east, are two in number, separated by a space of twelve inches, and are each six feet in length, and each represents a puma, or mountain lion, in the act of crouching for a spring. The heads of these statues are almost entirely destroyed, showing plainly the marks of the pieus hammer that sought their overthrow. The legs, bodies and tails of the animal are better preserved, and constitute the remains of the most remarkable stone images set up for pagan worship in the territory of the United States. To thee gods the Cochita Indians of the present day pay homage.

There are a number of special topics for discussion. Some of them are of greater importance of late years than ever before and much interest has been mani-

There Will Be Dozens of Big Railroad Guns in Macon.

HEARING OF THE INJUNCTION CASE

Judge Emory Speer Will Hear What the Matter-Other Railroad News.

Today is set apart for the trial of the celebrated injunction case brought by the Seaboard Air-Line against all the lines that compose the Southern Railway and Steamship Association in the United States court, over which Judge Speer presides.

The case is booked for a hearing today Macon and all of the big railroad guns will be there.

The history of the suit is interesting and is the sensation of the season in railroad circles. The Seaboard was boycotted several months ago by the Southern Railway and Steamship Association, it being claimed by the association that although the Seaboard was not a member of the organization it was under agreement to abide its rulings in the matter of rates and other details of traffic agree-

It was charged that the Seaboard repeat edly violated the rules and terms of the organization and that the roads composing the Southern Railway and Steamship As sociation were being seriously injured by the alleged fraudulent manipulations of the Seaboard. For these reasons and under such charges the Seaboard was boycotted by the associated roads.

The boycott had not fairly taken effect before the Seaboard was up and doing. Metsrs. King & Spalding, representing that road, went before Judge Lumpkin, of the Fulton county superior court, and filed a bill for an injunction against the Western and Atlantic and the Nashville, Chattaneoga and St. Louis roads, there being a special contract between these three companies by which the latter agreed to give the Seaboard always as advantageous rates as to any other line. The ruling of Judge Lumpkin in the case, however, was not to the Seaboard's interest, he holding that the two roads leading out to the west would have a right to make rates on all business originating beyond the city of Chattanooga. The attorneys for the Seaboard then filed a bill of exceptions to this decision, which is now pending before the court, the hearing having just been ended yesterday, when Mr. J. J. Spalding, for the Seaboard, made the last speech. The supreme court will render a decision in the near future, it being a

But in the meantime the attorneys for Seaboard have made a greater strike n this. They have gone to the federal courts and waged war upon the Central railread, which is in the hands of a re-ceiver and under the control of the federal court in which the suit is to be tried.

The nature of the suit has already been told in repeated accounts published in The Constitution. The defendants in the case are all the lines in the Southern Railway and Steamship Association, though the Cen tral of Georgia has been singled out as a paticular target for the arguments that will be brought out by the Seaboard's shrewd attorneys.

The case is the sensation of the day. There will be gathered in Macon more prominent railroad officials and railroad lawyers than were ever gathered in a courthouse on any one case, perhaps, since the suit affects the interests of all the leading lines of the south, Judge Baxter, of Nashville, the celebrated attorney in such cases as this, which questions the right of reads to select partners in making hrough rates, and who has made count less arguments before the interstate merce commission on the issues involved in the noted long and short haul litigation, has been engaged by the Southern Rail-

All of the railroads will have their atthe railroads will have their attorneys present when the case comes up before Judge Speer, and King & Spaiding, for the Seaboard, will have with them Chief Counsel Watts, of that system.

It will, indeed, be a battle royal between the roads, and the validity of the ment that holds the members of the South-ern Railway and Steamship Association tothe issue before the court This makes it one of the most important suits eyer tried in the courts of the south from a railroad standpoint.

All interest and profound concern cen ter in the procedure of the parties litigent

Drummers Going to San Antonio

There will be several extra sleepers put on for San Antonio today by the railroads leading westward to accommodate the members of the Travelers' Protective Association who are to attend the convention of the national organization in that city.

It is said by local members of the organization that the attendance will be large and that the drummers will have quite an important session out in the city

A rate of half fare has been given to the boys who sell goods to the trade and with a ticket all the way to San Antonio and return selling for only $28, it is needless to say that there will be many of them who will take advantage of it.

Messrs. C. I. Branan, of Atlanta, and E. I. Carter, of Columbus, will represent the Georgia branch of the organization in the convention of drummers and will take part in the many important steps that are to be taken by the organized traveling men of

Mr. Branan will present the invitation of the Cotton States and International expo-sion to the drummers to come to Atlanta on commercial men's day, which is to be October 18th, and will urge the proposition to have a great international convention of traveling men in this city on the 17th of

The drummers will take a trip to Mexico while in Texas, a rate of $20 round trip having been offered from San Antonio to the City of Mexico

LOW RATES TO ATLANTA.

Mr. Harmon Says That the Exposition Rates Will Be a Surprise.

Washington, May 29 .- (Special.) - Messrs C. E. Harmon, of Atlanta, and J. C. Halle, of Savannah, are here as representatives of the special committee of the general rate committee of the Southern States' Passenger Association to make ar rangements for the schedule of rates to be enforced during the Atlanta exposition. There are twenty-five roads in the south-

These roads are represented by as many men, who form the special committee which will report to general committee on June 11th.

The gentlemen were today unable to make any estimate of what the rates would be from the northern cities, but they said they would be the most satisfactory rates that have ever been issued.

"We are taking into consideration the hard times," said Mr. Harmon, of the Western and Atlantic, "and the rates to Atlanta will be much cheaper than they were to Chicago, in proportion I mean. We are making every effort to make the rates very low and I think the result will prove quite phenomenal when we are through with them."

RECENT DISCOVERIES.

It was only the other day, in a rock-hewn tomb down in southern Mexico, that there was found a bronze and hammered fron sword, bearing on its blade and handle-in rich inlaying of silver-characters of record and representations of life distinctively Assyrian and Grecian. The roughly hammered iron blade showed the crudity of the early days of the iron age, but the exquisite inlaying of silver on the bronze bore testimony to the cunning of the silversmiths who wrought the weapon. To all appearances, and according to the inscriptions, it was a royal arm, for on its ample hilt it bore in horizontal lines the crowned head of its wearer, while below, in cuneiform characters on the blade, were apparently the title and name of the sovereign. The sword and scabbard weighed twelve pounds, of which the sword alone represented two-thirds of the total. How a Chaldean sword could find its way into the tomb in Mexico is more than any one has been able to conjecture.

All over central and southern Mexico there are relics of a departed race whose annals antedate even those of the Aztecs. Antiquarians have endeavored to read their history in the stones of Tula, which was the old Toltec capital, now a place of ruins. Old Tula is now overgrown and half hidden from sight. San Juan Teotihuacan is also famous for its two great earthen pyramids, which stand out on the plain a half-mile apart. One of them was dedicated to the sun, the other to the moon. The earth for miles around is filled with small imagescaritas—insomuch that it seems as if these ancient people spent most of their time in making them.

A marvelous story is that which comes from Arizona, where a few months ago some prospectors in the Bradshaw moun-tains came upon a cliff-dwellers' village in one of the most inaccessible canons of that range—the largest village of the kind ever yet discovered. Several of the houses were explored and large quantities of pottery and some instruments, evidently used for cultivating the soil, were found. In one the skeleton of a man, not over four feet eight inches in height, was discovered. The canon at this place is half a mile wide and shows evidence of having been cultivated. If this theory proves to be true it will throw more light on the habits of this little known people. So far as known no other evidence has ever been disknown no other evidence has ever been dis-covered of cliff dwellers having cultivated

An Austrian student, Herr Low, who has been traveling in Central America, has recently obtained and forwarded to the im-perial museum in Vienna twelve large stone slabs bearing footprints in the solid rock. The slabs were taken from the quarry over Lake Managua, in the territory of Nica-ragua. These footprints had been overlaid by eleven different layers of stone, extending to a depth of four meters, and in dicating an antiquity for our race quite transcending all conjectures hitherto hazarded. They are about three-quarters of a meter square and are sunk into the stone to a depth of from eight to ten centi-meters. The footprints are said to be very conspicuous and seem to be those of three distinct persons, one of whom was a belonged no one yet has ventured to guess.

Curious and puzzling as anything brought to light in recent years was some ancient handlwork found not long ago in making excavations for a canal connecting Lakes Eustis and Dora, in southern Florida. The first excavations revealed the existence of a clearly defined wall lying in a line tending toward the southwest from where it was first struck. The wall was composed of a dark brown sandstone, very much crumbled in places, but more distinct, more clearly defined and the stone more solid as the digging increased in depth, wall was evidently the eastern side of an ancient home or fortification. This sand mound was dug into only a few inches, but enough was discovered to warrant the belief that here on the northwestern shore of Lake Dora is submerged a city or town or fortification older by centuries than any-thing yet discovered in this portion of Florida. Small curiously shaped blocks of sandstone, some of them showing traces o fire, pleces of pottery and utensils made of mottled flint were thrown out by the men while working waist deep in water. One spear head of mottled flint, five and a half inches long by one and a quarter inches wide, nicely finished, was taken from the top of the sand mound and about four feet below the water level of the lake.

But in 10 part of this country, perhaps, have so many valuable "finds" been made as in the territory of New Mexico. All this region seems to have been thickly peopled ages ago by a highly civilized race. On the highest point of the great Potrero de las Vacas of New Mexico are the most re-markable prehistoric relics that have been discovered, being rolless than the gods sculptured in stone that were worshiped by the ancients. These are the statues of mountain lions carved from a volcanic rock. The images are inclosed in a rude and al most circular stone wall, in a space fifty feet in circumference, three feet in height, with an entrance projecting eighteen feet toward the southeast three feet wide. The liens face directly toward the east, are two in number, separated by a space of twelve inches, and are each six feet in length, and each represents a puma, or mountain lion, in the act of crouching for a spring. The heads of these statues are almost entirely destroyed, showing plainly the marks of the pieus hammer that sought their overthrow. The legs, bodies and tails of the animal are better preserved, and constitute the remains of the most remarkable stone images set up for pagan worship in the territory of the United States. To these gods the Cochita Indians of the present day pay homage.

STATE PRESS PERSONALS.

Danielsville Monitor: If the democrats of the tenth district want to send a genuine, dwed-in-the-wool, intelligent, well-posted, silver democrat to congress, we would suggest that they insist on Editor Sid Lewis, of The Sparta Ishmaelite, accepting the nomination. As a silver advocate he outshines Watson, the populist attorney, and as an old time southern democrat, without a hobby, he stands way up head. If we were in the tenth we would favor Editor Lewis, for with him and his record the democrats could easily win.

BROOKS IN TROUBLE

He Was Arrested on a Warrant Yesterday Afternoon.

THE COMPLAINANT IS MR, PAT MOORE

Who Says That Brooks Chrated and Over To Answer.

Yesterday afternoon Charles H. Brooks the general manager of the Atlanta Promoting Company, was arrested in his office on a warrant sworn out by Mr. P. H. Moore

The charge preferred against Brooks is cheating and swindling, and thereby hangs an interesting story, covering a period of many weeks, and, it is alleged, many crooked deeds

Mr. Moore, the complainant, is an officer in the revenue service and has lived in Atlanta some time. About a year ago he resided on Courtland avenue, and there it was that the story began, the end of which is yet afar off.

Mr. Moore claims that he has been th victim of a shrewd conspiracy and in the shuffle has lost a great deal of money. He says that Brooks obtained rooms at his house last August. Brooks brought with him a lady whom he said was his mother. Moore claims that Brooks had been with him as a boarder only a short while when he approached him and in a smooth manner told him of his scheme. He claimed to be an agent for a patented toy swing and proposed to organize a stock company to handle the patent, the right and ownership of which was owned and controlled by a Michigan man by the name of Parsons

Brooks Proposes a Deal. Mr. Moore says that Brooks told him of his scheme in a straightforward and frank manner and the deal seemed to hold water. In fact, Mr. Moore thought so well of the idea that he subscribed $500 to the capital stock of the company that was being formed. He did not discover the irregularity that was so soon to crop out, and he gave Brooks his notes for $400. These notes were sixteen in number and their face value was $25. The remaining $100 of stock purchased by Moore was to be paid out of his profits in the future derived from his

When Moore gave the notes Brooks proposed to place $500 to Moore's credit in the Lowry bank, which was to be subject to the latter's check. When this arrangement was perfected, as Moore thought. Brooks induced a Mr. W. T. Nolan to be come a stockholder, and he and Nolan told Moore that they also had put in $500 each. The fourth man, whose subscription was to equal the holdings of the other three, could not be found. Brooks related the fact to Moore and Nolan, and between themselves they decided to increase their subscriptions to $625, and Moore was asked to advance $250 to accomplish this end. He felt secure in so doing upon a representation made by Nolan that he owned a farm in Coweta county, near New-nan. Moore made the advance and later on it was told him by Brooks that the right to make the toy swings had been signed over to them by the patentee, S. W. Par-sons, of Michigan, for which $2,000 had been paid. The new concern began its existence under the name of the Atlanta Patent, Promoting and Manufacturing Company and its birth was announced by advertisements placed in the conspicuous papers of the Mr. James Campbell was interested by Brooks in the scheme and finally was induced to take stock. All went well for awhile and the men were satisfied with their investment. Mr. Campbell was asked to advance money for the company, which he consented to do if given a mortgage on the stock of goods they had made. This stock consisted of about 1,200 of the toy swings and a mortgage covering this was swings and a mortgage covering this was duly executed in favor of James Campbell.

Moore, the complainant, alleges that Brooks has led a life of crookedness in the past and that he is given to living by his wits. He declares that the plan, when laid before him, was apparently plausible and feasible, but that after his money was invested and the investment was searched was found that the stock of swings on property were worth nothing at all compared to the price paid, In other words, Moore declares that he bought "nothing" represented to be worth good hard dollars and was and is out what he paid, notwithstanding the fact that he demanded the return of his money, at the same time charging Brooks with swindling him. Brooks is held in default of a five-hundred-dollar bond for his appearance before Judge Landrum on Friday. Moore claims that the most damaging evidence has been secured and he has several witnesses who will assist him materially in the case.

"My baby was a living skeleton. The doctors said he was dying of Marasmus, Indigestion, etc. The various foods I tried seemed to keep him alive, but did not strengthen or fatten him. At thirteen months old he weighed exactly what he did at birth—seven pounds. I began using "Scott's Emulsion," sometimes putting a few drops in his bottle, then again feeding it with a spoon; then again by the absorption method of rubbing it into his body. The effect was marvelous. Baby began to stouten and fatten, and became a beautiful dimpled boy, wonder to all. Scott's Emulsion supplied the one thing needful.

Lumbermen Oragnize a Company Which Is Intended To Increase Prices—The State Encampment Grounds.

Montgomery, Ala., May 29 .- (Special.)-A lively battle was fought about davbreak this morning between Dick Knight, a noterious negro chicken thief, and two police officers, in which Knight was killed. The regro had just raided several roosts near the capitol and was making away with his plunder in a sack on his back, The noise made by the fewls attracted the attention of the officers, who commanded Knight to halt. Instead of doing so he opened fire on them and about twenty shots were exchanged before the negro fell. Neither of the officers was struck. Knight was a notoriously bad negro. He was about seventy years old and had served five terms in the pentientiary.

LUMBER MEN ORGANIZE.

Alabamians Start a Co-Operation Company, Hoping To Raise Prices.

Mobile, Ala., May 29.—(Special.)—At a largely attended meeting of lumbermen of this state, held here today, the Alabama Lumber Company, limited, was organized, The capital stock is $15,000, divided into 100 shares at $150 a share. The company as perfected is to engage in the business of buying and selling lumber in all shapes and to represent manufacturers of lumber and owners of sawmills. It is the third in a chain of companies organized in the last six months and it means that the yellow pine lumber manufacturers of the country have formed a combination to stop the ruinious policy of competition that has been going on among themselves and that in future one price will prevail. The other companies interested are the Arkansas and Missouri lumber companies, and the Louisiana and Mississippi Lumber Company, The officers of the company are W. W. Smith, of Peters Lumber Company, president; F. L. Wagar, of the Wagar Lumber Company, secretary and treasurer; A. S. Benn, of Mobile, first vice president; M. L. Davis, of Oak Grove, Ala., second vice president.

The executive, price list and other committees are made up of all the big Alabama lumber dealers and mill men. The members are confident that if harmony prevails in the ranks living prices can be secured hereafter for lumber, as the states of Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Louisiana, Missouri and Arkansas are represented in the combine and it is a strong one. If they fall they say many mills will close down, as they are not making expenses. The action of the lumbermen today is of particular interest to mill men east of the Mississippi, north of the Ohio and all New England points. The meeting adjourned to meet June 6th, in Montgomery, Ala. Mr., T. C. DeLeon appeared before the meeting to explain the proposed construc-tion of the Alabama building at the Atlanta exposition out of native woods and building stones, a subject of interest to all lumber and timber men.

OATES TO COLORED STUDENTS.

He Gives the Boys Good Advice-His Address Highly Appreciated.

Huntsville, Ala., May 29.—(Special.)—The annual address at the colored State Normal and Industrial school was delivered by Governor William C. Oates yesterday. The im-mense chapel was crowded. The governor began with a history of the negro race from the time they were first brought here as slaves. He said no country on earth with a divided population had done so much for the inferior race as the south had done for the negro. With reference to the war, the governor told the students not to allow themselves to believe that the union soldlers fought for the freedom of the slaves, for it was not true. He thought slavery had existed as long as it was best for the two races, and the comb nation of circumstances that caused the freedom of the negro was the handiwork of Him who doeth all things

When the governor had concluded he told the boys that he didn't want to be misunderstood, hence he deemed it proper to say that as the negro proved himself wor thy, he would be given positions of trust, but that this is a white man's government and the less the negro attempts to govern the more he would be trusted by the white man. At the close of the governor's speech the 400 students arose and sang "God Be with You Till We Meet Again."

The principal, Professor W. H. Council, thanked Governor Oates in a beautiful speech in which he said he had hoped, but lever expected to hear such a magnificent speech to the colored race from the governor of any commonwealth.

Why They Protest

Press dispatches published yesterday morning carried a vigorous address is sued by the "sound money" committee of the New York chamber of commerce and addressed to "the business men of the south," in which an appeal is made "to resist every effort to precipitate a monetary revolution," and protesting against giving encouragement to the restoration of silver to its position as a standard money metal.

The press dispatches of the same day also contained the report of a "sound money" meeting held at the Academy of Music, in Philadelphia, on Monday night, at which Senator Edmunds and Mr. Trenholm made addresses of the usual gold standard variety. It is a little remarkable, is it not, that the crusade against a return to honest bimetallism is being directed from the money centers of the east? So vigorous is this opposition that it is not surprising that it has evoked comment suggesting that it may have its origin in selfish motives,

Some light is thrown on the subject by the table of tax valuations recently published in The Constitution showing the net gains and the net losses in the taxable valuation of property in all the states for the year 1894, as compared with the year 1893, the aggregate difference in one year being vividly illustrated by the following chart:

It will be seen from this map, which is based on the official sworn records of the states of the union for the first year of the gold standard, that the total decrease in tax valuations for the vast section of country lying between Pennsylvania and the Pacific ocean on the west and the gulf of Mexico on the south aggregates the astonishing sum of $412,510,985, while the net increase in valuation in the little neck of territory east of and including Pennsylvania is $312,110,555; and of this almost the entire increase is shown in the heavy gain in tax returns in the cities of Philadelphia, New York and Boston, the tax returns of the country counties, even of the east, having largely decreased.

It will thus be observed that the total decrease of nearly $500,000,000 in the states west and south of Pennsylvania has been absorbed in the cities of Philadelphia. New York and Boston, which cities are now holding daily meetings advising the people of the balance of the country to hold their necks close to the ground in order that the progress of the single gold standard Juggernaut may not be impeded.

No wonder that New York, Philadelphia and Boston are impressed with the beauties of the single gold standard and that the people of the south are being urged to stop their protests against it! In the first year of its operation the south lost over $90,000,000 in the valuation of its taxable property, as shown in its sworn returns. The middle western states lost $111,655,252, and the far western states lost over $210,000,000. And yet, strange to say, right here in the south and in the west are to be found organs praising the system that is smiting the prosperity of our people, and commending its continuation, though it is absorbing our vitality, levying discriminating exactions against our commerce, depressing our industry and paralyzing the agricultural activity of our people. The map is worth studying! It is, not a fanciful picture. It is compiled from the official records, and whenever you read of another meeting in New York, Philadelphia or Boston, and receive any more protests, it may be well for you to cut it out and send it up there, in order that our good friends, whose gratuitous advice is being so freely distributed, may not understand that our people have entirely lost their heads.

A Ringing Declaration.

Ex-Speaker Crisp, in his letter to Edftor Myrick, of The Americus Times-Recorder, printed in our issue of yesterday, forever settled any doubts that have been entertained by some ersons in regard to his attitude toward

In this communication Mr. Crisp declares in the plainest, most positive and st unequivocal English, that for a ime past and at the present time as been and still is in favor of the helping themselves, and that in propor-free and unlimited coinage of silver, independently by this country, at the ratio of sixteen to one.

We can well understand why he has delayed answering the misrepresenta tions of the goldbug press. He believed that his former expressions in favor of silver were unmistakable, and required nothing additional. As soon, however, as he saw that it was the deliberate purpose of the gold advocates to raise a doubt as to his real position he hastened to declare himself in such frank and clear language that it will henceforth be impossible for the most ingenious juggler with words to place a false construction upon his utterances.

We have known from the first where Mr. Crisp stood, and it is exceedingly gratifying to us now to see him confirming the confidence and the anticipations of his friends. This clear-headed, conservative and thoroughly loval democrat is a tower of strength on the silver side, and all genuine Americans will be delighted with his demand for the independent action of this country in reestablishing the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the old ratio. He indulges in no weak and vague talk about bimetallism and international action. He stands flat-footed upon the only silver plank that will suit the democratic party and the majority of the American

Mr. Crisp is easily one of the ablest of the silver leaders, and it will be difficult, if not impossible, to find his match among his opponents at the next session

The Kickapoo Reservation.

We regret to see that the governmen has made the same mistake in opening the Kickapoo reservation that was made in Yankton and Oklahoma.

The exact time for selecting quarter sections and filing claims was not known until the proclamation was issued an nouncing the day when the entries could be made. In the case of Yankton only five days' notice was given.

As might have been expected, the land-seekers wae nearly all from the immediate vicinity. Our people in Georgia, Alabama and other eastern states had no opportunity to get lands in Yankton and Oklahoma, Persons living near the reservation made a rush for the border. They went by rail, in wagons, on horseback and in buggies. The slow and feeble had no chance in this race with the swift and the strong. There was the same wild rush when the Cherokee strip was opened, and the proceedings were so disgraceful that the government was put upon notice that riots and general lawlessness would be the result of offering the public lands in such a grab-game fashion.

The acts allotting these homesteads looked well enough on paper, but they have worked in a very unsatisfactory way.

Chicago's Confederate Monument.

Speaking of the dedication of the monument to the confederate dead in Chicago which takes place today, The Inter Ocean says:

They were brave and true to the cause they had been persuaded was right, and why should not their children and the comrades that survive them erect a monument to them and scatter flowers on their lonely graves, so far from the homes they left when they responded to the bugle call to arms? Considered in that light, is there a man who wore the blue in the early sixties who would say them nay?

Besides, the war is over. It has been over nearly thirty years. There are no living nearly thirty years.
"confederates." Nor North and south stand side by side as loyal in devotion to the stars and stripes, and alike believe in the "indestructible union." It is all right about the camp fires and in homes to revive the memories of the war and tell the stories of the bravery of those who followed the flag to "glory and the grave." All these things are good to stir the blood, and inculcate in the youth the spirit of patriotism. But it is neither wise nor right to stir up the ani-mosities and bitter feelings of thirty years ago. These have grown less and less with every year, and, happily for the country, will soon be entirely things of the past Let every one, then, in the spirit of brotherly love welcome those who come from the southland to do this mournful Let us go with them to the graves of their dead and mingle our tributes

This is the right kind of talk. It is sensible, charitable and has the genuine American ring.

When the republican newspapers and ex-union soldiers talk in this strain about their southern brethren they are building up a sentiment which will wipe out sectionalism and make this a united country for all time to come. Henceforth the blue and the gray will march shoulder to shoulder with no shadow of the past across their pathway.

The Scope of the Exposition.

One thing should not be forgoften by the cities, towns and rural communities in the various southern states which are preparing to take an active part in At lanta's great exposition. The great fair will be in no sense local, with the exception of the fact that it will be held in Atlanta. Of course it must have its site, but beyond that its work and influences will be general instead of

The exposition is just as likely to benefit a remote town or county in Virginia. Texas or Missouri as it is to benefit Atlanta. A man with some unknown and undeveloped interest in North Carolina or Mississippi, or some other southern state, may make an exhibit at our exposition which will draw capitalists and men of enterprise to his locality and result in the enrichment of himself and his neighbors. Our exposition of 1881-82 had just such results, and hundreds of now-flourishing industries date their start from that occasion.

The Cotton States and International exposition will incidentally help Atlanta, but its greatest results will take the shape of incrersed trade with Spanish-America, the development of our manufacturing interests throughout the south the attraction of capital and imagration and the general building up of this section. Of course what Atlanta will make out of it will be a mere drop the bucket to the advantages which w be reaped by the southern producers, manufacturers and merchants at large It is hardly necessary to mention these points, but we desire our friends and neighbors who are aiding the exposition to bear in mind the fact that they are tion to their activity and liberality will be their reward. They should not forget that the exposition is not a local It is planned and cast upon broad lines with a view to the expansion and development of the material inter ests of the south and of the whole country.

Another Strong Silver Letter.

Mr. J. C. Clarke, president of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad Company, has, written the following letter to The New York Herald:

I am a bimetallist; I believe in both gold and silver as good and cound money. I think there should be no discrimination, at the United States mints, in the coinage of either metal. I believe that our government could and should coin five hundred million of silver, chiefly in dimes, quarters and half dollars, for use and circulation in our own country; that the United States government should issue no paper money in less denominatons than $10, nor coin any gold in less denominations than $5. Make all sliver that is coined by the United States government a legal tender, at its face value for all debts, private and public, in the United States. If our people contract debts in foreign countries they will in the future, as they have in the past, pay their debts in the lawful money of such countries where the debts are due. If international agreement can be secured to recognize silver in all countries, I am in favor of hat, but no silver that is coined by foreign countries shall be a legal tender in the United States, unless such foreign countries shall make silver that is coined by the United States government a legal tender, at its face value, in such countries. If no international agreement can be made, then I am in favor of our own governmen coining silver for the use and benefit of our own people in the prosecution of business and the development of our country's re-sources, to whatever extent the country, in its growth, population and business, may from time to time, require, at 16 to 1, or whatever ratio to gold the United States congress: ting for the whole people of our country, shall determine is right, just and proper, in the interest of the American peo ple, east, west, north and south.

Many points are embraced in this letter, but when summarized they amount to a demand for our independent, free and unlimited coinage of silver at the rate of sixteen to one, or whatever ratio may be favored by congress.

It is a sensible, level-headed letter, and it shows that the cause of free silver is making progress among our railroad men and in business circles

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The English ruling classes are showing a high degree of intelligence in the mar agement of their recruiting system. They have got rid of the fundamental idea of aristocracy of birth. They no longer insist that in order to be entitled to rule others the aristocrat must be able to trace his pedigree back to Odin and Thor. They are carefully constructing a new aristocracy on the fundamental principle that the strong are entitled to rule the weak. Whenever in the England of today a strong man appears the ruling class at once attempts to conciliate him. He may be a successful brewer or a great and powerful pawnbroker or an artist or a poet or an actor or a soldier. It makes no difference what he is or where he from. If he shows strength, if he demonstrates his ability to thrust his way to the front in the struggle for existence, if he has shown the power to push the weak aside or even if he is merely excellent without being aggressive, he is watched in the hope that his strength can be added to that of the governing class.

PUBLIC OPINION.

St. Louis Republic: Since the Memphis meeting there has been no tidal wave of conversion to its platform. Secretary Carlisle argued for the gold standard and the resolutions of the convention echoed his sentiments. Instead of making progress for conservative sentiment on the money question, the secretary's address and the resolutions which followed have had the contrary effect. They have aroused the most extreme silver men to increased activity. By making it appear that the struggle is for and against the gold standard, they have given to 16 to 1 leaders a plain advantage in appealing to the overwhelm-ing sentiment of the west and south in favor of silver money. Boston Globe: Every one knows that Mr Balfour, the conservative leader in the house of commons, is stanch in the bime-tallic faith. Among other notables who have given their adhesion to the cause are the duke of Abercorn, the duke of Fife, duke of Beaufort, Jacob Bright, Sir Lepel Griffin, Sir Henry James and Henry Chaplin, Knatchbull Hugesson and many other members of parliament. The Roth-schilds themselves are in sympathy with Thomas Baring, Sir Samthe movement. uel Montague, Sir Thomas Sutherland and not a few bankers and merchants of influence are pledged to support international bimetallism. New York World: The president has it in his power to do more than anybody else to bring about that international rehearing which so many sound money men regard as the safest and surest way out of our difficulties. He can convene the Brussels conference anew, or he might, with the authority granted to him at the last session of congress, do much to encourage Germany's disposition to call a new con-ference. The facts are all in favor of such an effort on his part. Sound political sagacity should prompt the president to lead in an endeavor for the settlement of lead in an endeavor for the settlement of the question rather than to lead in a pol icy calculated not only to disrupt his own party but to divide the forces that favor sound money.

Wilmington Messenger: If the only use of silver is such as Cleveland and favor, then it should be dropped altogeth-With gold the only money-the only legal tender, then why shall the govern-ment bother itself with any consideration of silver. It is absurd to take the position of silver. It is absurd to take the position the government takes. It is not worthy of any clear understanding of finance and is only befogging a matter of great importance to the people and which they should understand. If gold is alone to continue to be money—redemption money—money in final payment—a legal tender in all sums above 5, then why shall the gove ns above $5, then why shall the government worry and perflex itself over silver at all? There is no doubt, we apprehend, that the southern democrats are overwhelmingly for silver. The vote of the democratic state committee—29 to 1— about expresses public sentiment in North Carolina. The men who constitute the silver minority prefer gold only, but the twenty-nine demand both silver and gold. The Republic, which has seemed to us extremely moderate in its advocacy of silver heretofore, says in its issue of the 23d instant, that "four-fifths of the Kentucky democrats are opposed to the gold stand-ard and probably a larger proportion in the rest of the south deny that Mr. Carlisle's view of the money standard is the

SILVER IN CEORGIA.

Butler Herald: The "Sherman silver law Butler Herald: The "Sherman silver law" was repealed as the president directed, and it is now about the middle of 1895. The goldbugs promised that if the law—the "Sherman law"—requiring the monthly purchase of silver, was repealed by congress the large shipments of gold to Europe would cease; that the "silver craze" had caused the business men and capitalists to entertain doubts of the stability of our financial system, and these doubts had in a large measure destroyed the confidence of the business world. This they said—lack of confidence—was really at the bottom of the panic and of hard times. Repeal the law requiring the monthly purchase of silver and that would restore confidence, and this in turn would revive business and the country would again be prosperous, and that if the law—the Sherman silver law—were repealed the large shipments of gold would cease and the country would begin to experience some of the good effects of such repeal immediately. We are in the middle of 1895 and times are harder than 1895. This shipment of gold increased after the repeal to such a great extent that there was as much gold shipped in twelve months as there had been for ten years preceding that time.

Albany Herald: The gold advocates wil Albany Herald: The gold advocates will have to take another tack if they want to frighten the west and the south from free silver. We are already acclimated to hard times and can't be scared off by any such gloomy predictions. The south and the west have followed the eastern financiers for years past and the coils have steadily grown tighter. They are willing now to take the risk of a return to silver coinage, and they will do it.

Franklin News: About the only argument the goldbugs can produce against silver is an effort to prejudice laboring men against free coinage of silver by parading before them the low prices paid for labor in silver standard countries. They refuse to argue the question on the double standard platform, which the silver men demand. Who has osked a silver standard in the ard platform, which the silver men demand Who has asked a silver standard in th United States?

Brunswick Times: The National Bank ers' Association is putting an immense amount of money into the single gold standard campaign. Already letters are being written to the banks throughout the country and to local merchants telling of the dire disaster which must follow the double standard, and urging their influence in behalf of the Lombard street edict.

LaGrange Graphic: The whole question is simple; it is to the interest of those few who hold the gold to have gold as a single standard, and if it is the duty of the government to further their interests at the expense of the toiling millions, then we ought to have the single gold standard; it not, then let us demand a return to true

How different the ring of his voice. He has not even the courage to come out boldly and say that he has changed his opinion, but using a miserable verbal subterfuge, says that because the exact words "free coinage" are not used in the celebrated speech which has been quoted so often, we must ignore the whole spirit and tenor of what he said and believe that he was always a monometallist of monometallists.

THE EXPOSITION.

Augusta Chronicle: When the states in the north and west are making liberal appropriations for exhibits in the Cotton States and International exposition, it should not need much persuasion to induce the people of Augusta to follow their example. We are persuaded that the Atlanta exposition is going to be second in importance only to the world's fair at Chicago. Augusta can't afford to be left out of a place in this picture of the nation's industrial progress. There is no city in all the south-from Washington to Galveston and from Cincinnati to New Orleans—that has made such wonderful progress in manufactures and that has so much to show as Augusta. Of all the cities in the southern states, Augusta has made the greatest success in cotton manufactures. It is the largest cotton manufacturing city in the south, and this one fact should be emphasized by the most striking cotton exhibit at Atlanta. Our public-spirited citizens should awake to the opportunity of advertising the manufacturing and commercial importance of Augusta at the Atlanta exposition. If the states and cities of New England and the middle states find it to their interest to make liberal appropriations for exhibits at Atlanta, why should it not pay Augusta to do likewise? The city of Augusta should have a prominent place in the exposition, and there should be no question about the excellence of her exhibit. If need be the mayor and council should consider the matter.

Americus /Firmss-Recorder: The Abotton States and International exposition is one of the enterprises the half of which has not yet been told. The people, even of Atlanta, seem to have no conception of its magnitude.

I have thought over this matter a good deal, and have decided in my own mind that something will have to be done to protect the people who drive on that street. Every person who wants to take a pleasure drive, nine times out of ten, at some time or other, will drive on Peachtree street. Why? Because it has the best pavement. The people of that street went to a great expense to put down that pavement, the only pleasure drive in the city, and that is now seriously interrupted by drays and other heavily loaded wagons passing over it. My remedy is this: Let the city council pass an ordinance that no vehicle without springs shall be allowed to pass over that street. Then there will be no more than the street can accommodate. There are plenty of parallel streets, paved with belgian blocks, over which these heavy drays and wagons can travel and not discemmode any one.

This is my remedy. If any one has a better one I would like to hear of it. I can see no objection to the passage of this ordinance as everybody will be benefited and nobody discommoded, who passes over that street.

Well, the town belongs to them, and for the past two days the Washington correspondents have had first mortgage on all within the hospitable gates of Atlanta. Yesterday the entertainment of the guests was brought to a climax by a genuine oldfashioned Georgia barbecue, and the cor-respondents and the members of the Cincinnati Commercial Club partook with hearty zest of the delicious viands spread before them under the stalwart oaks that surround the pretty little Piedmont Driving Club house at Piedmont park.

The visitors were here as the special guests of the Cotton States and International exposition, but the city council and representatives of the beauty and chivalry of the entire city turned out en masse to join in the entertainment, and contribute to the joy and happiness of the occasion.

There is but one thing that restrains the pleasure of the occasion, and that is my yearning for my next visit to Atlanta," remarked Colonel McPharland, of The Boston Herald, and the sentiment was loudly applauded by all present.

The barbecue could not have been a more splendid feast, the day could not have been brighter, the skies could not have been bluer and the guests could not have been gathered at a more inviting place than there on the beautiful hillside that brows the entire acreage of the exposition

The view of the growing scene of activity and industrial life was excellent, for the exposition buildings, towering up from their foundations under the skilled hands of the thousands of scientific workmen, were all there like an inspiring panorama, and the din, and clatter of the carpenters in the distance loaned life and vigor to the picture that was presented. Atlanta and the exposition were the toasts of the day, Sheriff Calloway, of the glorious old county of Wilkes, coming in for his share of the praise from the healthdrinkers and well-wishers who had partaken of the delightful feast he had prepared for them in his own inimitable style If there is one man in all this wide world who knows how to barbecue, it Colonel Calloway. He is a native Georgian, and openly declares that he would rather be sheriff of Wilkes county than president of the United States. A Political Sensation.

In this connection, it may be proper to state that a great political sensation was sprung at the barbecue yesterday when Colonel Calloway, the barbecue chef, was nominated for congress from the eighth district of Georgia. The nomination was made in a clever speech by one of the brightest Washington correspondents the scene, and was loudly cheered by all of the knights of the quill.

Colonel Calloway, with becoming modesty, said the office of sheriff of the grand old county of Wilkes, which has produced a Bob Toombs and an Alex Stephens, was good enough for him; but the Washington correspondents all made public their intentions of starting the campaign going so soon as they reached their desks again at the national capital.

'I would like to he I should certainly reply: I would like to be on my next visit to Atlanta.' I congratu-late the people of Atlanta upon the prom-ise that is so freely displayed in the scene that greets my eye from this pinnacle. This proud, triumphant Gate City of the South deserves all that has been given her by a kind and benevolent providence, and long may she prosper is the wish of every heart in this company today, I warrant

Captain McFarland said his speech was to end here, but Mr. Cabaniss had asked him to speak on until he could trot in one of the members of the Cincinnati ercial Club for the next speech, so he would have to continue, and he did con-tinue, and made one of the hits of the day.

Mr. Burrows's Happy Speech. Mr. G. H. Burrows was the first Cincinnati man brought to the speaker's stand, and he made one of the best speeches of the day. He spoke in friendly thrusts at Washington correspondents, when he said that being a plain, blunt business man of a great manufacturing city he was not capable of coping with a bright young newspaper man who wrote speeches for congressmen and who were ever ready to speak on any subject.

"Why, these Washington correspondents can do anything under the sun," said Mr. Burrows, and the crowd applauded him. "There is not one of them, when it comes to making a speech, but who can just open his mouth and walk off and leave it speak. his mouth and walk off and leave it speak

"I am a plain, practical business man from Cincinnati, but I want to say that while I cannot find words to express my thoughts on this occasion, I nevertheless feel that which defies the force of the English tongue in conveying the gratification and happiness of a human heart. This is a day I shall never forget. I love this fair city of Atlanta and I love the warm-hearted citizens who have built it. I have seen Atlanta before. There are those of us here today who saw it once when it was nothing but a pile of ruins, marked here and ing but a pile of ruins, marked here and there by a nude chimney. I honor the pluck and progress of a people that made the transformation. I have no pa iene with the man who decries the old south. love the name of the old south, and I want to say that there is today no new south it is the same old south and the spirit that won wreaths for the bravery of your dead soldiers in a cause they thought was right is the same spirit of valor and courties that has made Atlanta in times of peace grow to such colossal proportions in the face of all adversities. No, my friends, there is no new source. Call it the same old south, for by that name, as well as by any other, she stands for American patriotism, American chivalry, American pride and American independence."

This speech was uproariously cheered by all present and three cheers and a tiger rent the air for Mr. Burrows.

Colonel George W. Adair, in his inimita-ble way, entertained the crowd for several minutes as the next speaker. He recalled a little history when General Sherman was being entertained in Atlanta on that very spot, and told the history of Atlanta's growth from that moment so wittily that he was loudly cheered by men and wome alike. It was one of the happiest speeche of the day-just the kind that Colonel Adair's versatility and wit alway qualify

Mr. Eagan, president of the Nationa Manufacturers' Association, was next in-troduced and made a strong and forceful speech about the exposition and the inter-est taken in it by all the manufacturers of Colonel Glenn was followed by Mr. Morr son, president of the Cincinnati Commer-dial Club. This was the closing speech.

Mr. Morrison declared that Atlanta was the second Chicago of this country when it came to push and enterprise, and he pre-dicted that the exposition would certainly be the prettiest and the grandest and mos e ever held in this region of the

They Left Last Night.

The Washington correspondents left last night for Chattanooga, where they will spend today.

They went on a special train over the Southern which left the city at 1:30 o'clock and were escorted by Mr. A'ex Thweatt the eastern passenger agent of the South ern railway, with headquarters in Nev ern railway, with headquarters in New York. Mr. Thweatt is well known in Atlanta, and is the toast of all the Washing ton correspondents, with whom he has made numerous friends on this trip. The Southern has shown the correspondents every courtesy, and they are loud in praise of the excellent train service and reliability of this great system of southern roads. The correspondents will leave Chattane ga this afternoon and will go by way of Knexville and from there to Asheville where they will have a joyful time of i climbing the towering blue mountains of that picturesque land of the sky. They will go straight from Asheville to

Washington and back to busy life again,

Resolutions of Thanks. At a meeting of the Washington corre spondents, held last night at the Aragon hotel, at the close of their visit to Atlanta, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved, That the Washington correspondents desire to express their warm appreciation of the charming hospitality extended to them by the board of directory of the Cotton States and International exposition and by the mayor and city council and citizens of Atlanta. Their visit has been one of unalloyed pleasure and the correspondents take their departure with reluctance from the attractive and enterprising city to which they have been so cordially welcomed. We tender a special acknowledgement of the grace and cordiality of the ladies of Atlanta to the visiting ladies who will always cherish the memory of the trip as one of their most delightful recollections."

The Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association was called to order yesterday morn-ing by President E. G. Leigh, of Rich-the bankers. The address of welcome was made by Mr. J. E. Maddox, president of the local association. He spoke in glowing terms of Atlanta and the welcome that she gracefully accorded the wholesale grocers. In his speech he took occasion to refer to the growth of Atlanta and to the future that she had before her. His sentiments were

The roll call was then had and the president's report followed.

The report of President Leigh was engthy one, but it was a report of the ut most interest. It was carefully, almost elaborately prepared, and every sentimen in it was one that fostered a thought which tended to the good of the association. Hi was eloquent at times and throughout was thoroughly in touch with the subject mat ter. He was frequently interrupted with applause and was cheered prolongedly at the conclusion.

The reports of the secretary, E. E. Hooker, and the tréasurer, Mr. J. L. Blair, were read and adopted. The condition of the asociation, financially, is a splendid one,

They were delighted with the exhibition, and last night many of them said that they were glad to see that the team was in keeping with the town-which was a winner, sure.

THE NIGHT SESSION.

It Is Said To Have Been Very Warm nt One Time in the Meeting.

There was a little matter not scheduled for the meeting, but it occurred nevertheless. It was a difference of opinion that sprung up between Vice President Vandiver and a delegate from New Orleans. It is understood that the words between them grew out of a discussion of the New Orleans merchants and their manner of handlnig meats. It finally grew almost personal and when matters had warmed up sufficiently both gentiemen discianted any intention of being personal and the discussion dropped. DEATH OF MRS. KELLEY.

The Wife of Mr. E. 3. Kelley, of This City, Passes Away. It will be sad news to the many friends and acquaintances of the late Mrs. Effe Kelley, of this city, and was well known and greatly admired by a large circle of friends here. Mr. Kelley, the bereaved husband, is a brother of Mr. C. H. Kelley, Mr. K. K. Kelley and Mr. O. Y. THE MEETINGS CLOSE.

Rev. J. L. White Unexpectedly Called Home. Yesterday afternoon Rev. Mr. White

preached a very interesting sermon on "The Tears of Jesus." Last night his subject was 'What Religion Brings." This was probably the best meeting of the entire revival. At the conclusion of the sermon thirteen inited with the church and probably as many others professed conversion. There was great surprise at the announcement that the meetings would have to close, Mr. White having been unexpectedly called home on account of sickness in his family. There will be another short service Friday night, after which the ordinance of baptism will be administered.

THE JACKSON.

A Splendid New European Hotel To Be Added to Atlanta's List.

THE DEAL WAS MADE YESTERDAY

It Will Be an Elegant Affair-Some of the Features of the New Hostelry-W. A. Camp To Be the Manager.

A magnificent European hotel is to be added to the list of Atlanta's new enterprises.

This is to be the Jackson. Yesterday the details were arranged and the plans for this new addition to Atlanta's hostelries were perfected.

The Jackson is to be the outcome of changes in the handsome Jackson building at the corner of Alabama and Pryor streets. This is the property of Captain Henry Jackson and that it is admirably located for the purposes intended must be seen at a glance.

How It Came About. Several weeks ago Mr. W. A. the well-known hotel man, formerly of Augusta, Anniston and Chattanooga, came to Atlanta determined to secure a hotel here. Captain Jackson had about decided to remodel the building, making an office building as complete in every detail as the Equitable, when Mr. Camp presented to him the possibilities of converting the property into a magnificent hotel. The result of that conference was a lease signed yesterday by which the management of the hotel will be in Mr. Camp's hands while hotel will be in Mr. Camp's hands, while Captain Jackson will spend $20,000 in making the necessary changes. Mr. Norrman has been placed in charge of this work and will begin it on Monday.

The Changes To Be Made.

The Jackson will be a six-story building, including the basement floor, and will contain seventy-five rooms. It will be strictly on the European plan. The ground floor will be given up to the cafe, the bar and the hotel office. A floor and wains-coting of Italian marble with heavy beveled glass from the top of the wainscoting to the ceiling will be features of the in-terior decorations on this floor. The cafe room will be 50x100 feet and it is the intention of Manager Camp to place here, in the center of the city, a cafe fully equal to any that the south has ever known. The rooms above will be elegantly fitted up and furnished. Half of them will have up and furnished. Half of them will have the accompaniment of costly porcelain baths, and the furnishings will be in keeping with the character of the hotel—"the finest in the south," is the way Captain Jackson puts it. The building will be equipped with elevators and steam heat; on the outside there will be built verandas, which will add to the attractiveness of the appearance of the building. At the religious corner there will be an entrance railroad corner there will be an entrance similar to that now at the Alabama street corner.

The Lessee Company. While Mr. Camp will be the practical lessee, the lease is made in the name of the Jackson Hotel Company, of which he is the leading factor.

"The hotel will not be simply an exposition affair," said he yesterday. "It is to be a permanency and I believe will ae able to demonstrate that there is room for it."

The building will be ready for occupancy about the 1st of August.

The Florida Excursion Party Reached

Atlanta Last Night. The last chapter in the twenty-fifth session of the Order of Raliway Conductors came to end in Atlanta last night when the members of the order that went on the Florida excursion reached the city and separated. When the convention adjourned last week a special train took 300 of the ticket punchers for a tour of Florida. The trip was made and a number of southern cities were visited. Not an accident happened to mar the pleasure of the excursion and the entire party returned to Atlanta in excellent spirits.

THEIR LAST DAY.

The Association of Water Men Will Adjourn This Evening.

A BIG BARBECUE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

The Delegates Were Carried Out to the Pumping Station, Where the Feast Was Spread.

A delighted throng was at the city pumping station yesterday afternoon. The waterworks men were there. A barbecue was there, too; a southern barbecue, served in a right royal southern style, and tossing all of their theories and problems to the wind, the waterworks men fell to, and a happy day they had.

The morning had been spent in the reading of papers of a technical and scientific All of these showed deep research and investigation. They were discussed and mooted points taken up for consideration. At 1 o'clock the members of the association with a number of the most prominent city officials boarded the special cars on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway for the Hemphill reservoir, whence they were taken to the city pumping station, where the feast had been prepared. At 6 o'clock the return trip to Atlanta was made.

Today will be the last of the present Bession of the association.

Besides the usual routine work the question as to where the next convention will be held will be brought up and a lively scene is expected as both Richmond, Va., and Indianapolis, Ind., are putting in strong

The nominations will be made by a com mittee, which was chosen yesterday morning. It is thought, however, that the present secretary will be re-elected.

It is probable that the name of Superintendent Richards will be brought up for president of the association, while Captain Bob Clayton, who has done so much fce the entertainment of the delegates, will be named as one of the vice presidents. Following is today's programme in de-

Preparations of an extensive nature had been made for the barbecue. The local committee had been at work for some time previous to the coming of the convention, making arrangements for the cooking of the meats to which the delegates would be

Their preparations were not in vain When the train with its eleven cars, alf loaded down with the guests, the city officials and their guests, reached the grounds the aroma of the fresh-cooked meats floated through the grove, and gave all notice of the great feast in store. Some time was spent in looking about the place and then the clarion voice of Captain Bol Clayton told them that it was high time for all to hie themselves hitherward.

They came to the tables, which were laid out in a shady retreat, and lined them-

Then for an hour, while the merry bowl went 'round, the waterworks men—some of then for the first time—were thrilled with the glory of a Georgia barbecue. Everybody was happy. It was an occasion for merriment, and after the feast all were called 'neath a large oak, from which place the orators were to hold forth. The Speeches Made.

Mr. H. C. Erwin, of the water board, was introduced, and made a short but happy talk. He told of what Atlanta had done in the way of improvements in her water system, and referred to the unity of spirit which prevails in all of the city's

He was followed by Judge George Hillyer, who also gave the members of the asso-ciation an idea in a general way of what Atlanta had accomplished.

Made a Happy Hit.

A happy hit was made by Mr. P. J. Moran. He was in a jolly humor, and before he had finished, those members who were too obdurate to be cheered by the effects of vinegared viands wore broad and ex-Mr. Moran said that Judge Hillyer had worked a remarkable reformation.

"Some years ago," he said, "the judge was a prohibitionist, stanch and firm. There was no one who fought for the right of temperance stronger than he; but the forces were against him, and he went down. De feated, but not despairing, he clung with all the tenacity of his convictions to his old belief. Politically, he was whipped, but the genius of his inventive mind asserted

Then in his inimitable way Mr. Moran told of the great temperance reform which had been going on since the works were put in order. Those who had been in the habit of taking their toddy had stopped. The waters of the Chattahoochee were good enough for them. The judge had also im-provised a Keely cure which had been won-drous in its effects. Rushing down through the hills and the valleys of north Georgia came the water supply, windings its way along the maontain sides, it caught the glint of the sunshine, and from its rugged retreat brushed out the hidden gold and brought it to Atlanta, where Judge Hillyer had established his great bi-cloride cure. In this way the speaker continued for inspected and at 6 o'clock the crowd turned its way homeward.

The Morning Exercises.

The regular exercises were held yesterday morning in the dancing hall of the Kimbaik Many of the delegates were on hand when the session was called to order by President The followin's papers were read: "Use of Electric Pumping Machinery for Waterworks," J. M. Goodell, civil engineer, Brooklyn, N. Y.; "Determination of the Loss in Pressure by Water Passing Through Check Valves Under Variable Conditions," John Knickerbocker, mechanical e.gineer, Troy, N. ### Who Will Be President?

There is much interest over the election of officers, which will take place today. A nominating committee, composed of Charles E. Bolling, Richmond; . N. Denman, Des Moines; T. J. Loder, 1 eksvilleon-the-Hudson; John Camfield, St. Paul, and W. H. Laing, Racine, Wis., were appointed yesterday morning. This committee will nominate a ticket which is expected to be elected today. It is said that the name of Superintendent Richards, who is now very ill, will be placed before the convention for the office of president. However, nothing can be told until the mmittee makes its report. It may be that he report will not be received.

Yesterday Was Very Hot, but the Prophets Predict a Cold Wave. Chicago, Ill., May 29.—The records of the weather bureau do not show a hotter day than this one in May for the last twenty-five years. The oldest residents, with keen memories, do not recollect as hot a day in and about Chicago for the time of the year. Thermometers down town ranged in the afternoon from 92 to 96 degrees, the official reading being 93. In the face of these remarkable changes in temperature during the last three weeks the official prophets gives warning of a cold wave, which will arrive from the northwest in the next forty-eight hours and may drop the mercury to 40 degrees.

BONDS OR NO BONDS

That Is the Question To Be Decided at | The Luscions Watermelon Comes Into the Polls Today.

MUCH INTEREST IS BEING MANIFESTED

t Will Be a Battle Royal, and the Result Sides of the Measure.

The issue of bonds to the amount of $150. 000 will be decided at the ballot box today. And the question is one in which the friends and foes to the issue are greatly interested. Both sides have discussed the measure a great deal. In fact, it was the one topic of conversation upon the street corners yesterday.

There is a hard and persistent fight being made upon the issue of the bonds, those who oppose it saying they do not think that the burden should be thrown upon posterity. The friends of the bonds are emphatically in favor of them being issued. They are anxious that the Boys' High school be completed and that the other improvements should be made that would be the result the bonds go through.

Mayor King is very hopeful of the result of today's fight and with him many of the best posted politicians agree.

The polls will open this morning at 6 o'clock and will remain open until 7 o'clock in the evening. The registration lists show that 2,995 have been qualified to vote. If out of this grand total there are found to be over 1.987 slips of paper that read "For Bonds' when the ballot box to opened to-night, the issue will be man and the im-provements begun. ## Allen's Plea Is Self-Defense.

Dawson, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—The the killing of Paul Hill Slaide occupied the attention of the court all day. Judge Bower is presiding. The defense made a hard fight to postpone the case and also asked to have a mistrial ordered because a juror was suddenly taken sick just as the panel was complete. Allen's counsel is trying to prove a case of self-defense but the state appears to be making out a strong case against the defendant. The case will continue on tomorrow.

Will Investigate the Rest of Them, Lexington, Ty., May 29.—Since the discovery yesterday of a deficiency of $19,-000 in the accounts of City Collector Judge S. C. Sharp, it has been determined to push the investigation of the books of a number of ex-city collectors. Among these will be the books of the late Judge W. B. Kinkead, who was collector just before J. Hull Davidson. It is said that there are targe discrepancies in his books. The investigation will also be carried into the books of the city treasurers for the past twelve years.

A Withered Rosebud.

Thou wert lovely, withered rosebud, when my sweetheart pinned you there, With a merry little twinkle of her eye,
And I thought that I had never in my life seen one so fair,
And I hoped you'd live forever—never die.

But, alas! Like other roses that have bloomed in days gone by, You withered e'er the sun sank in the

But I'll keep you as a token of my love, which ne'er will die, And your memory forever will be blest.

Can it be that though I love her, as I once loved you, sweet flower.

That her love, like you, will wane away and die? Nay! I know that though I'm lonely now,

I soon will see the hour When I'll live with her in bliss and cease to sigh. -O. A. CLINTON.

MALARIA. HOW TO KEEP IT OFF.

SIMPLE VEGETABLE REMEDY.

"I was attacked with malarial fever in the summers of 1882 and '83, and became very much reduced in flesh, and my friends thought I would die. I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator and commenced improving at once. Before taking three bottles of Regulator I was entirely well of malarial poison and have not had an attack of it since. "My son had a severe attack of chills, and I gave him a few doses of Regulator, which completely cured him."

CRAIG & WHITSON BUY THE FIRST

And Sell Entire Carlond to J. B. Smith 14 North Broad Street .

It is melon time once more. They are in the city by the carload and are crisp, lucious and juicy.

Messrs. Cra.g & Whitson, wholesale commission dealers, yesterday received a car load direct from Lake City, Fla., and the fact of their arrival in the city created considerable commotion among the retail grocers. Mr. J. B. Smith, who conducts the large and up-to-date market house at 14 North Broad street, purchased the entire lot and now has them on sale. Of course you want a large, crisp, juicy watermelon—a melon that had no aches and cramps in it, and there is no place where you can secure it so easily as at Mr. Smith's. Today call him up by telephone and give your order, and remember Mr. Smith not only keeps melons, but evenything a housekeeper wants. In fact, he is the people's popular merchant man and his scooping an entire load of watermeions show that he is always on the alert for the first, freshest and best things that are to be had. As to the enterprising fire of Craig & Whitson, the popular wholesale commission dealers, it may be said that they scooped the country and brought the first car load of meions for the season to Atlanta. It is Atlan't's way always to be first, and it is the dy of this firm never to flow, but to lead in their trade.

While the firm of Craig & Whitson is comparatively a new one, being the successor of the J. W. Phillips & Co., yet it has tken a high stand and is handling a large line of business. It will be well for the trade to remember that everything in the fruit, produce and commission line is landled by these gentlemen. Their connections are the very best and if anything is wanted telephone them or send to 56 South Broad street. Out-of-town rade is promptly attended to by them. It is melon time once more. They are in the city by the carload and are crisp,

Grand Army Men and Officers from Fort McPherson Hold Sacred Services
Overthe Graveso: Union Soldiers.

The Blue and the Gray. (On the Unveiling, on Monument Day, of the Monument to the Confederate Dead

conflict's o'er, the banner's furled,

A cause is lost and won,
And martyred heroes sweetly rest
'Neath stars or glowing sun.
Some calmly lie where gleaming shafts Rise proudly toward the sky; Some sleep in the hush of wooded nooks Where light winds softly sigh.

Some rest where once the battle raged
In tempest of shot and shell,
Where deeds of valor were grandly wrought
And brave men fought and fell—
Fell 'mid gleam of musket and sword,
And glory of battle array,
And their names and veltent deeds are And their names and valiant deeds are

In the poet's grandest lay.

But these whose graves are decked today By friends and erstwhile foes, Are those whose life-tide ebbed away

'Mid prison's gloom and woes. ar from their sunny homes they sleep— The homes they loved so well, The homes for which they sternly faced The foe and a prison hell.

But garlands fair their graves adorn, Blest covenants of peace; And hand meets hand in a clasp which tells That hate and strife must cease

Tread softly now, 'tis hallowed ground Where "blue" and "gray" clasp hands, And mingled tears above the dust Where sleep these patriot bands. And they who once were bitter foes

But now are brothers true, ing equal praises to the brave, Wore they the gray or blue. And this majestic monument,

Unveiled with love and pride,
A tribute is from the living brave
To the brave and true who died.

the Grand Army of the Republic, officers and soldiers from Fort McPherson and large number of ladies will leave the union depot this morning at 8:10 o'clock for Mariwhere the solemn exercises of national Decoration Day will be observed and the graves of soldiers that fell fighting for the union will be covered with beautiful southern flowers.

This year a larger number than usual will go to the resting place of the soldiers the pretty National cemetery in the tle town of Marietta.

The flowers—and there is an abundance of them—have been collected not only in Atlanta, but from many of the smaller towns near by. Many of them, too, were sent to the flower committee by the same fair hands that placed sweet flowers upon the graves of the confederate dead only a short time since at Oakland cemetery. These women of the south simply know that the plain little graves at Mariette. STORY OF A COIN.

After Twelve Years a Lost Pocket Piece Is Returned.

From The Kansas City Star.
Several days ago A. N. Moyer, receiving teller of the Wyandotte National bank, of Kansas City, Kan., found among his day's receipts a quarter of a dollar bearing the name of "M. W. La Rue, Louisville, Ky.," together with some heiroglyphics, the in-dividual marks of a Royal Arch Mason. He thought that the coin was undoubtedly a highly prized pocket piece, and he di-rected a postal card to M. W. La Rue, He had almost forgotten the matter when he received a letter from Mr. La Rue, who had removed from Louisville to Cincinnati, and afterward to Winton Place, O., of which village he is now mayor. He said that he had lost the pocket piece twelve years ago and expressed himself very anxious to get it back, saying he would gladly pay for the coin and for Mr. Moyer's trouble.

Mr. Moyer's sent it by registered letter to Mayor La Rue, and Friday he received a letter from him acknowledging the receipt and inclosing 36 cents, which, he said, was to pay the expenses, 25 cents for the quarter, 1 cent for postal card and 10 quarter, 1 cent for postal card and locents for the registry stamp. He added:

"The wanderings of my little mark may never be known, but I hope all its errands were those of beneficence. I grudge nothing of its performances, though, like many other wandering loved ones, its absence has been a source of many surmises, regrets, apprehensions, and now and then a bitter pang of genuine grief, as its place could never be filled except upon order could never be filled except upon order of authorities not easy of access or always placable. Its possession entitles me to Masonic burial; to relief from pressing temporary want and guarantees other privileges, immunities, etc., that would be out of the power of hundreds and hundreds of coins of like weight to procure."

LANGLEY'S FLYING MACHINE. Eight Feet Long and Weighs Less Than a Safety Bicycle.

From The New York World. The Langley flying machine, which flew 1,000 feet on a trial trip some days ago, is a marvel of mechanical ingenuity, deliis a marvel of mechanical ingenuity, defi-cacy and symmetry. Alumnium steel forms the greater part of its frame. Its boilers and engines weigh less than four-teen pounds to the horse-power, and the whole structure weighs less than the original safety bleyels. The horizontal plane section of the body has the contour of a mackerel, though all its transverse sections are circles.

The machine is about eight feet long, and the wings of fine oil-glazed silk are at their widest portion not over twelve their widest portion not over twelve inches across, with a spread of perhaps four feet ench. They are the wings of the dragon fly, rather than of the gull, whose motion in flight Secretary Langley has studied so closely. Around one of the private rooms of the Smithsonia institution are arranged scores of bird wings extended, and exhaustive studies have been made of wing motion, bird flight and the made of wing motion, bird flight and the action of the feathers in flight. At a trial action of the reathers in hight. At a trial flight of, the model not long ago Professor Langley and Alexander Melville Bell witnessed it together, and when it sailed through the air these gentlemen, well past middle age, danced with joy and hugged each other in their exuberance like a pair of schoolgirls.

While Hiram Maxim has spent much livre money than Professor Langley and niore money than Professor Langley, and has been very successful in producing a flying machine, Professor Langley's work, it is believed, has proceeded along more permanent lines.

THEY WANT TO YOTE

And in the Unitarian Church Yesterday Morning

THE LADIES GATHERED IN FORCE

Some Wanted a Full and Complete Fran-chise, While Others Wanted Only a Part-It Was a Live Meeting.

The most interesting and entertaining of all the meetings yet held by the Atlanta Woman's Suffrage Association took place yesterday afternoon at the Unitarian church. The attendance was large and a number of new names was added to the list of membership.

The fun began with the introduction of a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to draft a bill to be introduced at the next meeting of the Georgia legislature, conferring the ballot upon the educated women of the state.

There was no difference of opinion among the women as to their desire to vote, but as to the expediency of asking for a partial ballot or a full ballot, and as to whether there should be an educational qualification or a property qualification or both or no qualification at all, various and conflicting were the opinions.

Mrs. Strahan lead off with the demand for a full ballot-free and untrammeled; no property, no education, no nothing, save the requisite age. Ignorant men voted-ignorant women, black and white, should have the same right. Men without property exercised the franchise and women, as poverty stricken as themselves, should have the same glorious privilege.

Mrs. Redwood based her demand for the ballot on scripture, quoting all along the line with citation of book, chapter and verse, fortifying her position as the skillful controversialist on religious questions buttresses by laying hold upon the law and the prophets. But she didn't want all women to vote. She was strong for an educational qualification.

Mrs. McLendon expressed herself vigorously as in favor of the whole thing-a free and unrestrained ballot.

"It's all nonsense," she said, "to come up to the legislature and say please let us vote on school matters. No; ask for a ballot exactly the same as men have; women were entitled to it; it was their right. never was much of a hand to ask for a slice of anything but I always wanted the whole loaf, especially when it comes

Mrs. Swift, president of the association, took the floor and, in strong and logical terms, urged the right of women to a full ballot. She did not see it as a question of women wanting to vote, but claimed the right of franchise for her sex on the ground of simple justice. She scouted the idea that women who were calling for political equality were desirous of making themselves like men-imitating them, either in their masculine ways or their vices. Her leaning was toward an educational qualification when women were admitted to the ballot box.

Mrs. Storey, who is the daughter of an editor and has been an editor herself, modestly said that she would be satisfied if she could vote on school questions alone. She believed it would be better to grow up to full suffrage than to demand an unrestricted ballot at the first jump.

Mrs. Tom Jackson was not at all suited with the shrinking attitude on the suf-frage question. She had unbounded con-fidence in the chivalry of southern men and believed in coming right out and telling them just what women wanted. As soon as men found out what was expected of them they'd be sure to do it.

Mrs. Whitesides was likewise strongly in favor of having a full ballot, but she was not ready as yet to formulate her ideas on the question of educational or property qualification. Mrs. Thomas believed that women should be allowed to vote on all occasions just as men vote, but she was sure that the admission of uneducated women to the ballot had enough experience with ignorant male voters in the south to desire a repeti-tion of the mistake when women were allowed their rights at the polls. Mrs. Dr. Robertson expressed herself as being strongly in favor of a full ballot for women who could read and write. She didn't see the sense of asking for a part when it would be just as easy to get the

Mrs. W. G. Owen made some forcible remarks upon the right of woman to the there should be an educational qualification. She believed that the admission of educated women to the exercise of the fran chise would solve the whole southern prob-lem for all time. Any measure providing for the conferring of political rights upon women without such restriction she lieved would rouse the most vigorous op-

Rev. Mr. McCrary, a new member of the association, who opened the meeting with an eloquent prayer, gave the ladies some fatherly advice. He cheered their hearts by asserting that there was a mighty mass among the people of Georgia who were fully in sympathy with the cause of women suffrage and that it only needed a proper occasion to make this sympathy felt. warned the ladies to steer clear of political parties, but when he solemnly assured them that the negro woman was the greatest obstacle in the way of their being granted the ballot dissenting shakes of the head were seen in all parts of the house, companied sometimes by audible words dissent. It was easy to see that the ladies believed they knew more about the negro woman than he did. At the end of a long and spirited debate in which it was seen that women can have the most pronounced ideas on political ques-tions, a cautious member got the floor and after adverting to the importance of the matter in hand and the necessity of proceeding with due circumspection in matter of submitting their claims to legislature of the state, moved that the

They have had to buy the stock of people better informed, and are now trying to get out of it. Conditions are against an advance at present and there is likely to be a readjustment of holdings. S. Munn, Son & Co.'s Cotton Letter, Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

New York, May 29.—Liverpool reported sales of 10,000 bales, with the price of spots unchanged. Futures opened 1 point higher and closed firm at an advance of 2 to 2½ points from last night's close. Our market opened 3 points up and advanced 6 points more, August selling at 7.2% and afterwards declined to 7.22, closing at 7.2447.25. The reports of the crop are very conflicting. Governor Hogg, of Texas, who was on the floor today, very much surprised some of the cotton men by telling them that the crop of Texas, in his opinion, would not be decrease one acre. The new farmers coming into the state would counterbalance any decrease of acreage which the old farmers intended to make on account of the low price at the beginning of the season. He also stated he had never known rain to do damage in Texas. Every day brings us nearer to the new crop.

The following is the range of cotton fatures in Now Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

New York, May 29.—Summary of Hubbard Bros. cotton letter: The government crop report published this morning being unfavorable had the effect of advancing Liverpool some 3 to 4-64d and our own market 8 to 9 points. The speculation in the market has become quieter than for some time, but the feeling continues as bullish as ever, and it is noticeable that, while prices respond more slowly to unfavorable crop advices, the entire trend of the market is toward higher prices. The cotton belt at the present time needs plenty of sunshine and warm weather to enable the farmers to catch up with their work and to give the plant relief from the excessive moisture of the past three weeks. Whenever such a condition prevails we may expect to see a sharp reaction from the recent advance. The market closes slightly lower than the best prices of the day on a natural disposition to avoid a large interest over the holiday. Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letier. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letier.

New York, May 29.—(Special.)—Today's dismal crop accounts. especially from Texas, had the effect of hardening prices in spite of the heavy selling to take profits, which the market encountered as it rose, August opened 3 points higher at 7.21, advanced to 7.28, reacted in consequence of the liquidation to 7.22, but again railied and closed at 7.24@7.25, with the tone steady. The bulls seem to be increasing in numbers and confidence every day, and to our mind it is a healthy sign that the friends of cotton are taking their profits on advances and reinvesting on declines. We shall be disappointed if, in spite of reactions, we do not have materially higher prices during the summer.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, May 29.—Cotton advanced 9 to 12 points, then reacted and closed steady at a net advance of 6 to 7 points, with sales of 183,100 bales. New Orleans advanced 8 to 10 points and then lost 2 points of this. Liverpool was unchanged, but hardening on the spot, with sales of 10,000 bales, and futures advanced 2½ to 3 points. The southern spot markets were quiet; Galveston, New Orleans and St. Louis advanced 1-16c. In Manchester yarns were dull and cloths quiet. Houston receipts 322 bales, against 229 last week and 62 last year. Spot cotton here was quiet at 1-15c. advance; 72 bales sold for spinning and 100 delivered on contract. New Orleans receipts tomorrow estimated at 1,000 to 1,500, against 1,558 last Thursday and 825 last year. Today's Features.—Notices on June contracts to the amount of about 10,000 bales were issued, but they had so little effect. The Sun's Cotton Review.

that in the advance today June actually took the lead. Greeks snapped up the notices promptly, but that was what everybody had expected, and it excited little comment. Liverpool was higher, the crop news was unfavorable and shorts covered quite freely. The south was buying. The receipts were small and the exports large. The signal service reported rather heavy rains in some parts of Texas, and predicted further rains or showers and cooler weather for most sections of the cotton belt, whereas what the cotton belt needs is dry, warm weather. The southern markets showed more strength, grain was at one time rising, and the dull side is the popular side of the markets for all the great commodities.

The Manchester Market.

Manchester, May 29.—The Guardian, in its commercial article, says: "The market has been decidedly quiet, a condition due to the paucity of large workable orders and the weakness of cotton in Liverpool. The line has been generally firm, but occasionally there has been a lessening of confidence. While many manufacturers have a fair amount of orders booked, there are many others whose order lists are exceedingly low, and who are likely to be eager sellers unless they secure business soon. The latter class includes the makers of India shirtlings. Business with India is restricted, especially in the matter of staples. There are occasional inquiries for light goods, prints and fancies, and a portion of acceptable offers for shirtlings. Business with China and Japan is inactive, though there is some inquiry for standard heavy goods, and there are occasional transactions in salines. The lesser foreign demand is seldom workable, though there is a moderate South and Central American business. Yarns are slow, spinners are firm and buyers apathetic." The Manchester Market.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opened Higher but Closed

Lower Than Tuesday. Chicago, May 29.-Wheat traders have laid aside the hessian fly, chinch bug and frost literature, and for the past day or two have been devoting their attention to the dry weather advices and their relation to what is supposed to be left of the wheat crop. The knowledge that Kansas, Nebraska and others of the winter wheat states have crop. The knowledge that Kansas, Nebraska and others of the winter wheat states have been sweltering under an exceedingly high temperature, accompanied by hot winds, gave prices buoyancy at the opening today, sales being at an advance of 1½47½c from yesterday's close. The weather man was heard from later, however, his forecast of rains and cooler weather for the west and southwest softening the tone and causing prices to ease off. There were several subsequent ups and downs to the market as the feeling was quite week at almost inside quotations. Tomorrow being a holiday tended to contract business in a marked degree, July wheat opened from 82½c to 32c, sold between 82½s and 80½c, closing at 80½c, cold between 82½s and 80½c, closing at 80½c, cold between 82½s and 80½c, closing at 80½c, cold between 52½ and 80½c, closing at 80½c, cold between 55½ and 53½d55½c, closing at 80½c, cold between 55½ and 53½d55½c, closing at 53½d½c, sold between 55½ and 53½d55½c, closing at 53½d5c, closing at 53½d5c, closing at 53½d5c, closing at 53½d5c, sold between 55½ and 55½d5c, closing at 53½d5c, closing at 53d5c, been sweltering under an exceedingly high

Chicago, May 29.—The highest point of the crop was reached this morning around the opening, July wheat selling at $2%. The weather and the bulletins were factors. The map showed but light traces of rain last night and cold weather in the mountain districts, the latter moving toward the east and suggesting possible frosts in the northwest tonight. These were later predicted by the signal service, but were offset by reports of rain in a few localities in the west with prospects of more tonight. The fact that tomorrow is a holiday and the market a weather one induced holders to realize quite freely. Good rains may fall before Friday and thus create a very bearish feeling and lower prices. Many of the local shorts had covered yesterday on the late strength, consequently there was not very much of this buying early, outsiders giving about the only support, which was somewhat inadequate to absorb the offerings. From $2% c prices gradually worked back nearly 2c per bushel, ½c of which was recovered and the market held steady until the Kansas state report was received, which stated the past week had somewhat improved crop conditions. At the same time western points reported rain and on this prices again declined a cent per bushel, most of which was need to the same time western points reported rain and on this prices again declined a cent per bushel, most of which was are explained by the fact that a large portion of them represent wheat that has been reshipped from Chicago, so that the actual receipts are not near as large as they appear. The cash inquiry has been good and considerable business transacted, one lot of 15,000 bushels be-Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

ing sold to go to Texas. The closing cables were lower and clearances small.

Coarse grains opened very excited at the high point of the day. The feature was the weather.

weather.

Oats were especially strong, but the entire line suffered a severe decline on heavy realizing. Bulletins are more favorable on corn than oats, but if the hot, dry weather continues the prospects will be very poor. The light run of hogs and the strength in grain, as well as country buying, were influences in the provision pit. Prices around the opening were strong and higher, but the efforts of packers to break prices were later successful to a small extent, although final figures were in favor of holders.

The Atlantas are now in second place and are giving the Nashville team a hard chase for the top place in the pennant glide. It was Little Rock's third defeat at the hands of the Atlantas yesterday when the game was over, and that, coupled with the fact that the Evansville team did not play ount of the weather, gave Atlanta a good second place.

Then Ab Powell's men found an easy chance to do the leaders, and do that crowd the man from New Orleans certainly did. And for that do the people of Atlanta sin-cerely thank Manager Powell, for it allows the Atlantas to crawl up nearer the leaders

The defeat of the Little Rocks throws that team down the ladder a point or two, and that with the good, hard playing of the Chattanoogas during the last few days has given the Tennessee boys a chance to go by the Travelers. The Chattanooga team is now playing good ball and there are many chances for it to make a showing for itself among the first four before it leaves home

The game yesterday was one worth see-ing. Horner was in the box for the At-lantas and he showed the material of which he is made. The men Gorman is moving over the association were simply unable to touch him, and it was one hit only that the Arkansas people could get. That hit was made in the fifth inning, and while it was not a scratch it might have been cut off by a little more rapid foot work on the part of Smith, the short stop. As it was the ball rolled away out into left field and gave Fifield, the man who made the hit, a three-It was almost a chance for a home run Fifield had if he had been properly Manager Gorman presented a team that might be classed as a mangled one. His first baseman, Wyly, did not reach the city, and Corcoran, who is on a strike for more pay, would not put in an appearance. Manager Gorman found himself without a catcher, and Fifield, who pitched the day before, went behind the bat and did some excellent work. In fact he caught like an old-time catcher, and by his faithful work caught the spectators.

There was a very large crowd out and

TWO INQUESTS HELD

A Verdict of Murder in One and Snicide in the Other.

THE NEGRO HOWLSWORTH DETAINED

D. A. McNyrich Swallows Laudanum and Dies from the Effects-His Funeral Occurs Today

The coroner's time yesterday was devoted to unraveling Motorman Johnson's death and ascertaining the causes that led to the death of Agor McNynch.

In both instances the juries over which he presided succeeded in placing the responsibility of the tragic ending of two lives. After a long and tedious session adjourned from yesterday, a verdict was rendered in the Johnson case, and it says that the blow was given the motorman by Cord Howlsworth, and they believe it to be murder. The session was begun Tuesday afternoon and the testimony of the witnesses examin-ed at that time was given in yesterday's Constitution.

Yesterday the jury was called together again at 10 o'clock, and other testimony was given. The first witness called was Columbus Burton, who lives at No. 88 Greensferry avenue. Burton stated that he saw Cord Howlsworth Saturday night 9 o'clock on Peters street and they went home together on Hills avenue. Sun-day he heard that Johnson had been knocked in the head, and on Monday was told by a negro that Howlsworth struck the

B. C. Kenner testified that he overheard the quarrel on Saturday night; that Howls-worth was abusing a negro woman and Johnson interfered. He saw Howlsworth strike the blow and Johnson fall. As the negro ran he heard him say that Johnson was no officer and he had no right to inter-fere with him. He was not able positively to swear that Howlsworth was the man he saw that night, but he believed he was. Kenner went to Johnson's assistance, but Johnson never spoke. He and a white man named Hobgood carried the man home.

Many other witnesses were examined and the evidence pointed clearly to the fact that Howlsworth did the deed. After all the evidence was heard the following verdict was

The Verdict.

"We, the jury impaneled and sworn to inquire into the cause of the death of W. C. Johnson, find from the evidence of witnesses, that said W. C. Johnson came to his death from a wound inflicted on his person; and we further believe said wound was inflicted by Cord Howlsworth, and we further believe the same to be murder. This May 29, 1895. "FRANK L. HARDEN, Foreman."

The Second Inquest.

As soon as the verdict was reached in the Johnson case the coroner went directly to the home of John T. McNynch, on North tue, where an inquest was held over the body of D. A. McNynch. Mr. McNynch took three ounces of taudanum Tuesday night with suicidal intent. He lingered in great agony and died yesterday morning at 6 o'clock. He was forty-five years old and was a brother of John T. McNynch, the tinner, on Broad street, and Sylvester McNynch, who runs a bar on Marietta street. He was unmarried and lived with his brother on North avenue. The only witness examined in this case was Mrs. McNynch, the mother of the dead man. She testified before the jury. She sald that her son had been drinking for several months and drank very heavily for two of three days prior to his death. On Tuesday afternoon he came home and asked for a glass of water. Going out into the yard, she saw him take out a small vial and pour the contents into the water, which ne guiped down; she tried to stop him, but he was too quick. He refused to drink any coffee she offered him. Early yesterday morning physicians came to the house, and endeavored to rally the sinking man. He had threatened to take his life before when he was drinking. She saw the label on the bottle he threw to the ground and it contained laudanum.

The verdict was rendered in accordance with the testimony, which was to the effect that the fatal draught was administered own hand and it was taken with suicidal intent.

McNynch will be buried today from his brother's residence, 519 North avenue.

The interment will be in Hollywood cem etery.

GOODWIN HAS A HEARING. The Uncle of the Slain Gets Excited on the Stand.

Augusta, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—The preliminary trial of Will Goodwin for the killing of Nick Cotter was commenced this afternoon. The case was heard before Magistrate Nathan Davis, who held court in the superior courtroom to accommodate the crowds who were desirous of being present. The case was called about 3:45 o'clock, and court adjourned at 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mr. Henry Hammond appeared for the defense and Mr. Boykin Wright for the prosecution, it being remarked that these two gentlemen who have been associated in some of the most sensational criminal cases in Rich-mond county, were for the first time on op-posite sides in so prominent a case. He spoke rapidly and earnestly, at times even excitedly. An axhandle that plays a mos prominent part in the trial was produced. He declared most vehemently that if Nick had ever hit Will Goodwin with that axhandle, Goodwin would never have been able to shoot him. "Yes, and let me hit him with it, too," he continued, "and he will never be able to shoot me. Nick could wallop the two of them put together," re-ferring to Goodwin and his brother, who is Bladder troubles arise from varied causes and manifest themselves in varied forms. Commencing in some part of the urinary tract an irritation often extends to the neck of the bladder, and even involves the whole organ—producing cystitis, mucus discharges, etc. At other times an irritable condition of the urine will develop bladder trouble in its most aggrayated form.

Pain in the small of the back, hips and thighs, heat and inflammation, frequent desire to pass water, smarting, indescribable agonies which render life a burden, are a few of the symptoms of discased bladder.
